Ike Releases All Papers On TVA Contract

Letters And Memos
Give Sidelights On Proposed Purchase

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration tonight made public a blow-by-blow account of the negotiations and high-level arguments over its proposed private power contract in TVA territory—a contract it defended as "the best solution for everyone concerned."

The mass of letters, memos and other documents showed the Budget Bureau, backed by the President, pressing for the contract in the Tennessee Valley Authority and some members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

But the Budget Bureau emphasized that President Eisenhower did not know until April 24—long after the contract negotiations were started—the names of the private utility officials proposing to enter into the contract.

This was by way of reply to a charge by Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell that Eisenhower pressed for a contract in which a close personal friend—grandson golfer Bobby Jones, had an interest.

Jones, now an Atlanta lawyer and business man, is a director of the Southern Co., one of two private utilities which would contract with the government to supply power.

The Southern Co. is headed by E. A. Yates as chairman of the board. The other company which would take part in the power contract is Middle South Utilities, Inc., of which Edward H. Dixon is president.

The combine, known as the Dixon-Yates group, would build a new power plant in the Memphis, Tenn., area. The AEC would buy the power and turn it over to the Tennessee Valley Authority in exchange for power the TVA delivers to the AEC installation at Paducah, Ky.

The proposal was made in view of statements by the TVA that it needed more power to meet the needs of consumers of various kinds.

TVA, vast government agency which among other things is in the public power field on a big scale, wanted to meet the greater power needs by building government-owned steam power generating capacity but the administration contends that in this instance a private contract is more in line with the free enterprise system.

The contract proposal came under hot fire recently in Congress, where backers of TVA accused the administration of seeking to hem in and nibble away that government project. This administration (Continued On Second Page)

New York City Stirred By New Torture Crime

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Another savage torture crime spurred a shocked police department tonight into a wholesale weekend roundup of hoodlums and loitering young toughs.

As an outgrowth of the unfolding story of a teen-age gang that "killed for the thrill of it," police hauled in 160 zoot-suiters and corner bums in an overnight roundup. The orders went out to all precincts tonight to spread the dragnet again.

The object of the latest sadistic crime attack was an elderly cripple, burned and tortured in a night of horror by a ruthless intruder who tried to get him to reveal the hiding place of his money.

Joseph Scarlata, 65, retired pet shop owner who has one leg, was found nude and beaten this morning, unable to get up off the floor of his Harlem tenement flat.

He told police his tormentor, a Negro, forced his way into the flat last night and spent nearly eight hours beating him, burning his body with cigarettes and rubbing salt into the raw wounds.

When Scarlata repeated again and again that he had no money in a hiding place, he got a callous threat of a bullet in the head in reply.

Finally the torturer ransacked the tiny apartment and left with $6.10, all he could find.

Scarlata was hospitalized after neighbors, hearing his moans, found him.

Army-McCarthy Subcommittee To Report Aug. 30

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Senators who sat in judgment on the McCarthy-Army controversy agreed today to return their verdicts by Aug. 30.

Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), chairman of the special Senate subcommittee, reported that it met behind closed doors this morning but failed again to settle on one set of findings.

Indications were that there would be probably more than two reports made on the hectic, 36-day investigation.

Aug. 30 is the same date on which another Senate group headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) is scheduled to begin consideration of a list of charges made against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) to support demands that he be censured by the Senate for his official conduct.

Watkins announced after a private meeting with McCarthy's lawyer, Edward B. Williams of Washington, that the hearings would start on schedule as far as he knows now. The two men discussed procedural matters.

Mundt announced that by unanimous vote of six members present, the subcommittee has "set the date of Aug. 30 at 5 p.m. for submission of additional statements of viewpoint." He said the group gave final approval to a summary of the evidence and testimony taken during the hearings, adding:

"We agreed unanimously on a statement which will follow the narrative summary of the evidence."

Once the reports are in, they will probably have to be correlated before being made public.

The hearings were a public airing of charges by Secretary of the Army Stevens that McCarthy and his aides exerted improper pressure to get favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine, and counter-charges by the McCarthy camp that Stevens and Army counsel John G. Adams used Schine as a "hostage" in an attempt to thwart McCarthy's probe of alleged Red infiltration of the Army.

Mundt said he has his own version of the report ready for filing. Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) who has said he thinks both sides proved their major charges, has another version ready. Democratic Sens. McClellan (Ark.) and Jackson (Wash.) are completing other drafts. Sen. Potter did not attend today's meeting.

New Altitude Record Is Set By Air Force

Details Withheld
By Sec. Talbott;
Speech Deleted

BOYS TOWN, Neb., Aug. 21 (AP)—Without naming the time, place, pilot, plane or exact height, the Air Force tonight announced a new world altitude record had been set. The details were withheld for security reasons.

Harold E. Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, made the announcement in an address prepared for the Air Force Assn. at a banquet at this boys' home near Omaha. He said only this:

"I am able to announce to you tonight that an Air Force test plane has just broken the world's altitude record."

"It will go higher."

It was learned that in his original statement Talbott had included information as to who, what, where and when.

However, security review officers at the Pentagon deleted that information and restricted the secretary to the bare announcement.

Talbott declined at a news conference to elaborate on the prepared announcement of the new record.

Talbott also told reporters it is logical to assume that Russia's newest giant bomber, recently seen over Moscow, has four engines developing at least 18,000 to 20,000 pounds of thrust each.

Asked if the United States has any comparable engine he replied, "Sure we have." He declined to go into details but said, "Talk to Pratt and Whitney about that."

Later he backed down a bit and said we have no 20,000-pound thrust engines that he knows of, but it cannot be determined whether the Russian plane developed that power with the use of afterburners, which augment thrust temporarily.

The most powerful U.S. engine officially announced has 10,000 pounds of thrust but at least two engines are known to be considerably above 14,000 pounds.

Talbott also declared that the new B52 jet bomber has exceeded expectations in weight, performance, speed and altitude.

There was general speculation, among the 1,650 air enthusiasts at the banquet, that the new record was set by Maj. Charles Yeager in the Bell X-1A rocket plane.

U. S. Joins In Effort To Save EDC

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sunday, Aug. 22 (AP)—An American envoy joined openly with the six foreign ministers of Western Europe early today in a dramatic move to save the foundering European army plan.

David K. Bruce, special U.S. envoy and a specialist on the European Defense Community drove to the Belgian Foreign Ministry where the deadlocked ministers have been meeting since Thursday in an effort to reach a compromise on French demands for drastic revision.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France has declared that EDC, the originally French-sponsored dream that was to rearm Germans for defense of the West but hold a checkrein over any German aggressive tendencies, was dead in France so far as its chances of ratification by Parliament were concerned.

But the other five prospective allies in EDC rejected Mendes-France's posed changes on the grounds that he would leave only a hollow shell.

Bruce, who arrived in Brussels from Paris late Friday, joined the six ministers just as they broke a three-hour session for a recess.

Presumably the ministers wished to consult him on American angles relating to EDC.

Bruce was accompanied by his top aide, William Tomlinson.

While they were talking with some of the ministers, the two key figures of the conference, Mendes-France and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, were observed gesticulating and talking earnestly over the conference table. The only person with the two statesmen was Prof. Walter Hallstein, chief of the West German Foreign office.

It was not clear whether Bruce delivered any sort of message from Washington. Earlier, he had conferred with some of the important ministers of the conference on Saturday.

Defense, economic and political experts had been assigned by the six foreign ministers early today to try to reconcile the French plan for revamping the European Defense Community treaty with EDC's original version. But there were reports from conference officials that some differences simply could not be settled.

It appeared the ministers, if they are bent on reaching an acceptable formula, will have to carry their negotiations into next week—or call a new conference soon. That might spell yet another postponement of the French parliamentary debate on ratification, due to start Aug. 28.

David K. Bruce, special U.S. envoy to European projects, conferred separately with French Premier Pierre Mendes-France; West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer; Belgian Prime Minister Spaak; the conference chairman; and others.

Bruce's talks and purposes were cloaked in secrecy. There were unconfirmed reports he was sounding the ministers on a possible new compromise formula.

The United States position toward EDC remains unchanged. The Eisenhower administration wants quick implementation of EDC as it is now so as to hurry along a contribution of a half million West German troops to the (Continued On Second Page)

Ike And Mamie Fly To Denver For Vacation

DENVER, Aug. 21 (AP)—A beaming President Eisenhower arrived today with golf clubs, trout rods and a crowded docket of work for a long business-and-play vacation.

The President was accompanied by a small White House staff, including two speech writers who worked with him during the flight on the nationwide television and radio address he will make from Denver Monday night on the record of the Republican-run 83rd Congress, which completed its legislative program last night.

Also along on the trip from Washington was screen actor and TV Producer Robert Montgomery, who serves as a technical advisor whenever Eisenhower goes on TV.

The presidential party will use summer White House offices at Lowry—the same headquarters used last year.

Without stopping there today, the President and the first lady drove directly from the airport to the gray, brick two-story home of her mother, on tree-shaded Lafayette Street.

Clues Found To Brutal Murder Of Monroe Man

Car Similar To
One Stolen From Victim Sighted

A burley, blonde 35-year-old man with an effeminate voice was sought last night by police officials as a suspect in the brutal murder of John L. Adams, supervisor of elementary music for the Ouachita Parish public schools.

Authorities had information that the man, possibly a seaman, was headed for Mobile, Ala., or Miami, Fla.

First leads in the bizarre slaying came less than 24 hours after Adams' body was found lying on a blood-soaked bed in his apartment at 900 North Third Street Friday night.

Adams apparently had been garroted with a plastic belt and pounded about the head with a heavy instrument.

Earlier Friday, he was reported missing by relatives. Some of his personal papers and clothing were found by children playing near Tullos, La.

Ouachita Parish Coroner Dr. J. T. French yesterday termed the death a homicide. He said his official verdict would be issued later.

Dr. French estimated the time of death to be shortly after noon Wednesday.

A report Saturday from the LaSalle Parish sheriff's office in Jena told of the appearance there Wednesday afternoon of a "suspicious looking man" described as being about 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighing between 165 and 180 pounds.

LaSalle Deputy Sheriff J. C. Pyle quoted a service station attendant as saying the suspect drove alongside a gas pump island there and asked for a road map, explaining that he was "headed for Miami via Mobile." The man aroused the attendant's suspicions when he told of being "from Michigan," even though the 1951 Plymouth which he was driving bore Louisiana license plates. The car's description tallied with that of Adams' auto, object of police search along with a $2,000 ring, since discovery of the kill.

Police in Monroe theorized last night that Adams, en route Tuesday to Monroe from a vacation in Mobile, picked up a Mobile seaman and brought him to Monroe, arriving (Continued On Second Page)

Doctors Remove Nail Imbedded In Heart Of Child

HOUSTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Doctors successfully removed a nail from the heart of six-year-old Diane Campbell Saturday and said she soon should be able to play again like other little girls.

The delicate operation, which took two hours and 15 minutes, was performed at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Doctors said the nail, which was over 10 inches long, was driven into the child's heart last week. The nail imbedded itself in her heart muscle and doctors feared it might work its way inside the heart.

Following the operation, Diane was given a sedative to sleep and her doctors said "there weren't any complications in the course of the operation. Barring complications in the future, she should recover within a short time."

The vivacious, blue-eyed child, although alert and apparently unconcerned, has lain in precarious condition since the nail was driven into her chest from the whirling blades of a power mower last week. The nail imbedded itself in her heart muscle and doctors feared it might work its way inside the heart.

But Danaher said he didn't think the Canadians should get excited. "They said I would have to get permission," he said. "I wasn't denied permission. After I got airborne I called a radio station off the Newfoundland coast and gave them my new flight plan."

"All this happened at two in the morning. The officials weren't up. You might say the time element was to my advantage."

Danaher came to Limerick to look up relatives. He plans to fly to England Saturday to visit with a wartime Royal Air Force buddy, Flight Lt. Roy Bennett.

Then, he says, he hopes to see the pope in Italy.

The Texan said he intended to fly back to America from Rome the way he came—alone—"unless some officials get in the way."

tion denied. In the recently passed atomic energy legislation, the private power contract was authorized, though with certain limitations.

One of the documents made public tonight was a letter dated April 16 this year, in which AEC commissioners Eugene M. Zukert and Henry D. Smyth protested to the Budget Bureau that the Yates-Dixon contract "would involve the AEC in a matter remote from its responsibilities."

"In an awkward and unbusinesslike way, an additional federal agency would be concerned in the power business," they said.

"The present proposal," they wrote, "would create a situation whereby the AEC would be contracting for power, not one kilowatt of which would be used in connection with the commission's production activities. The creation of such a contractual relationship would place upon the commission a continuing responsibility during the 25-year life of the contract for stewardship in respect to matters irrelevant to the mission of the commission."

The two commissioners added, however, that if the President or Congress decided the AEC should accept "such a responsibility" they would attempt to carry out the directive.

Later, testimony before the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee disclosed that AEC Commissioner Thomas E. Murray also opposed the proposed contract for similar reasons.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss and Commissioner Joseph Campbell, Eisenhower appointees, said they favored the contract.

AEC Manager K. D. Nichols testified that, in view of this 3-2 stand against the proposal, the commission was proceeding to carry out negotiations only because of President Eisenhower's directive.

On last July 2, Harry A. Curtis, vice chairman of the TVA Board of Directors, wrote Budget Director Rowland Hughes that the proposal seemed "inconsistent" with a stand taken in the President's budget message of Jan. 21.

Curtis said Hughes' letters dealing with plans for the Yates-Dixon proposal and a decision to deny TVA's request for funds to provide additional power capacity for Oak Ridge, Tenn., appeared "seriously prejudicial both to TVA and to the interests of the government."

The TVA official further contended the private power plant would be uneconomic. The "most serious aspect of the whole arrangement," he concluded, would be that TVA would lack control over the costs it would incur, since the contract would be between the AEC and the private interests.

On Aug. 18, Hughes replied to Curtis saying the latter must have misunderstood the proposal. Hughes wrote that President Eisenhower is convinced the proposed contract is "a reasonable and practical solution to the problem."

"It will meet the area's immediate needs, while allowing time for study as to how the long-range needs can best be provided for," Hughes said.

Hughes said it seemed to him that there is "full provision" for control by TVA over the costs it would incur. He wrote:

"The contemplated arrangements will keep the lines of responsibility clear between AEC and TVA. Inasmuch as AEC will have the responsibility for contracting for the power produced by Middle South-Southern, it will bear the costs for producing that power. The Tennessee Valley Authority—in exchange for equivalent power delivered to AEC—will receive and use the power through its transmission system and, therefore, should bear its own costs associated with such transmission and distribution. We understand the TVA responsibility for efficient and economical performance to apply to the use of the power and the operating arrangements from the point TVA receives it as exchange power from the Middle South-Southern producers. I am confident TVA will cooperate with AEC in working out arrangements which will result in maximum efficiency and economy for the government."

The documents were made public tonight as a follow-up to remarks by President Eisenhower at a news conference last Tuesday. Commenting then on Democratic Chairman Mitchell's attack, the President praised Bobby Jones as a man of high integrity, and said that his own actions in the matter would be thrown wide open to public scrutiny.

Minor amendments might be accepted, but none of the basic principles should be touched, the Americans feel. Bruce presumably was talking today within this field.

Toward the end of their third day of tough, sometimes uncompromising, exchanges, this was how the ministers stood:

1. So far as is known, France has withdrawn but one major revision of the dozens she put forward last week—a revision that would have killed plans for a six-nation political community to coordinate all European integration projects. Mendes-France, possibly to please Italy which backed this project, agreed to have it reinstated.

2. West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, for their part, have thrown out the French plan for turning EDC into a sort of six-power coalition, or national armies without supranational controls. Of this group, all except Italy have ratified the treaty as it stands.

3. The ministers explored, and so far have not yet disposed of, a three-point Belgian compromise formula intended to produce:

A. A list of French proposals interpreting EDC, which the other five feel they can accept at once.

B. A list of French proposals which the six powers are ready to bequeath of the EDC council of ministers when it is formed after treaty ratification.

C. A list of those proposals which the two sides simply cannot agree upon. It could be submitted to a new parity of the six foreign ministers soon, after each has had the chance to think over all these things again.

will live there until they return to Washington in late September or early October.

For the President there will be several flying trips out to Denver and back again during the next few weeks of this congressional election year. Aides say he is determined to wage a scrappy battle in an effort to maintain Republican control of Congress, and he has a round of speeches scheduled to that end.

In Denver, Eisenhower plans to play golf as frequently as possible at one of his favorite courses, Cherry Hills Country Club. Like last year, there probably will be some quick trips about 40 miles southwest of here to the South Platte River ranch of Bal Swan, an old friend, for some trout fishing.

Ways Of Ending Segregation In Churches Sought

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 21 (UP)—A world team of Christian leaders went to work today to frame methods for cleansing churches of what was called their "great scandal"—racial segregation.

But there were differing shades of view on how it should be accomplished.

With a critical finger pointed particularly at practices in churches of the United States and South Africa, speakers laid the problem before the Assembly of the World Council of Churches.

Dr. Benjamin Mays, of Atlanta, Ga., said it was up to churches to recognize "the urgency of the situation" and find means to end racial barriers that "scar the soul" and violate the "law of God."

"To proclaim one thing and act another is sheer hypocrisy," he said.

Dr. Ben Marais, a Dutch Reformed church leader from the racially explosive region of South Africa, stressed complexities of the problem and said churches might sometimes have to accept segregation temporarily.

But he added this could be "justified only on the ground" that excessive haste might wreck efforts to achieve "the ideal of a church in which all men who believe in Christ shall be at home."

The Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa, newly admitted to the Council, has generally espoused the government "apartheid"—segregation—policy. There, Dr. Marais made clear, he opposed it.

He and Dr. Mays, Negro president of Baptist Morehouse College, presented reports from a commission on "intergroup relations—the church amid racial and ethnic tensions," one of six major subthemes of the assembly.

A special section now goes to work on the subject with its recommendations to be brought before the world body next week.

Shutting the door of the church to anyone because of race, said Dr. Mays is like saying: "You made a mistake, God, when you made people of different races and colors."

He told 1,500 church representatives from 48 countries and 163 denominations that local congregations are waiting for a word of guidance on "how to deal" with a condition that defies gospel teachings.

All kinds of world gatherings have condemned segregation, he said, but "the scandal remains," a blight on modern Christianity.

"It will be a sad commentary on our life and time if future historians can write that the last bulwark of segregation based on race and color in the United States and South Africa was God's church," he said.

Eisenhower's statement stands in striking contrast to the fact that the U. S. is preparing a war against the East," John said.

HAROLD WAYNE CARROLL

Funeral services for Howard Wayne Carroll, two-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carroll of Beaumont and grandson of Mrs. Maude Irvin of West Monroe, who died yesterday in Beaumont, will be held at 3 p.m. today at the graveside in Hasley Cemetery here.

Rev. W. E. Spencer, pastor of the Chenebier Baptist Church, officiated and interment was under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home.

Besides his parents and grandmother, he is survived by one brother, Robert Carroll, and two sisters, Margaret and Lela Mae Carroll, all of Beaumont.

End 'Kinderlift'

BERLIN, Aug. 21 — UP—The U. S. Air Force Saturday ended its "Operation Kinderlift" which flew 1,440 German children from Berlin to West Germany for vacations.

Officials said the program was a success.

Shutting the door of the church to anyone because of race, said Dr. Mays is like saying: "You made a mistake, God, when you made people of different races and colors."

He told 1,500 church representatives from 48 countries and 163 denominations that local congregations are waiting for a word of guidance on "how to deal" with a condition that defies gospel teachings.

All kinds of world gatherings have condemned segregation, he said, but "the scandal remains," a blight on modern Christianity.

"It will be a sad commentary on our life and time if future historians can write that the last bulwark of segregation based on race and color in the United States and South Africa was God's church," he said.

Funeral services for the slain man have been set for 3 p.m. Sunday at the Portland, Ark., Baptist church. Burial will be in the church cemetery under direction of the Jones funeral home of Hamburg, Ark.

Adams, supervisor of elementary school music for Ouachita parish since 1952, is survived by one brother, Shirley Adams of Mobile, Ala., and a number of uncles and cousins.

He came to Monroe from Jena, La., where he had served as band director for a public school in 1951-52.

Dispute Over Mexican Shiner Hot In This Area

JENA, Aug. 21. (Special)—With information released over the week end that the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries commission is studying the so-called Mexican "shiner" which some people have charged is a cannibal fish somewhat like the infamous South American piranha, Leland Walker, spokesman for the Walker Minnow Farm of Jena, this week broke a self-imposed silence to "reveal" some of the details of the incident.

Pointing out that while most of the unfavorable publicity has been aimed at his organization "actually the shiner was imported into Louisiana and sold for bait some six months before we began handling them," he asserted.

"The Mexican shiner had been imported to Alexandria by truck from Houston, Tex., and sold on the market there, and had appeared on the bait market in the Shreveport area some four to six months before Walker Minnow Farm brought the fish to Jena," he said.

"About 30 days ago," Mr. Walker continued, "we bought our first load of the minnows in Zapata, Tex., and were told they came from Falcon Lake. This was a good two months after they appeared in Alexandria and four to six months after they first were sold in the Shreveport area."

Continuing his recount of the incident, Mr. Walker stated that so far as he knows, the first complaint was made by Joe R. Dellmon of Alexandria, who reported the "shiner" to John Newsom, a representative of the wildlife and fisheries commission, in Alexandria.

"Instead of contacting us, Mr. Newsom took the story to the daily newspaper in Alexandria which ran an account. To say the least, the story put us in a very unfavorable light and sought to fix the blame on us when actually the fish already was on the market in Alexandria — and had been — for two months before we began handling it."

In connection with this report, rangers of the wildlife and fisheries commission came to our bait stand in Jena. Hartwell Love, captain of the rangers, a Mr. Fairbanks and Ray Stutson, rangers, were in the party.

"They came on direct orders of the New Orleans office of the commission in receipt of a complaint that Walker's Minnow Farm was transporting and selling a fish that was harmful and would destroy a human and/or animal."

"After observing our minnow, the rangers remarked that it must not be the fish described to them. The fish that had been described to them grows from 8 inches to 2 feet long and the minnow we have doesn't exceed 4 inches, as later proven by examination by the wildlife commission."

Last Thursday afternoon, Leland and M. D. Walker met with officials of the wildlife commission in New Orleans and Dr. Richard Gregg of Louisiana State University told the group of his experience with the fish in his work in Mexico.

"Dr. Gregg told us that even if the fish could live in our streams, that most harm it could cause would be classed as a pest due to the fact that it would nibble on a hook while the fisherman was fishing for brim with worm bait which it likes, in the same fashion that a lot of our present native species do — such as gar, grinnell, dog perch, silverside, etc., and the eating of native minnows."

Mr. Walker added his own observation, "We have local minnows which sometimes eat each other."

Dr. Gregg also told those at the meeting, according to Mr. Walker, that while the minnow in question might be of the same family as the piranha, "it is a very distant relation."

But regardless of whether the fish could remotely be classed as "dangerous," Mr. Walker stressed that his organization was co-operating closely with the wildlife commission's request that no further minnows be imported and that those on hand not be sold until a thorough investigation of its habits, etc., had been made. This is expected to take about 30 days, according to an estimate made by L. D. Young, Jr., director of the commission, according to information given by Mr. Walker.

"In the meantime, we are co-operating closely with the commission."

"Fishing and the servicing of the fisherman's needs is our business. Certainly we are not going to do anything that might be harmful to our future livelihood and reflect on our business ethics," he added.

Mr. Young was reported by Mr. Walker as taking the stand that he was not outlawing the "Mexican shiner" at the present time, pending further investigations, neither would he issue permits for the continued importation of the fish into Louisiana.

"However," Mr. Walker reported this week, "as late as Sunday morning, Aug. 15, the minnow still was being trucked into Baton Rouge and sold for fish bait in that area."

"It also has come to our attention that the imported shiner also has been sold — and as far as we can ascertain still is being sold — in other parts of the state, not including this area."

Mr. Walker also stressed that "we appreciate very much the courtesies extended us by Mr. Young and his department and we certainly will go along with the wildlife and fisheries commission in seeking to settle this question."

He added, in closing, "We didn't start the importation of this minnow. We were not the first to sell this minnow in Louisiana. We have stopped all import and sale of this minnow until given the go-ahead by the wildlife and fisheries commission."

Official Birth Records Needed Before School

All parents with children entering first grade this fall are urged to get their official birth records in order now, according to Dr. S. J. Phillips, state health officer.

The Legislature recently enacted a law which makes it mandatory that all children upon entering the first grade of any school in Louisiana be required to present a copy of their official birth record.

Although children from out of the state will be given 30 days grace in which to produce a copy of their birth record, parents should write early for birth records. These may be obtained from the state registrar in the state where the child was born.

Children born in foreign countries will be allowed to submit birth facts shown on their passport or citizenship papers. This is in place of a birth record if none is available from the country of birth.

Parents of children born in Louisiana can get the official birth record from the local registrar in the parish where the child was born. If no record is available there, the local registrar will contact the state registrar.

A delay until the last minute may mean that many children cannot begin school on time. Acting promptly will be more likely to get prompt returns on all inquiries.

Army Enlistees Get Wide Choice

The United States Army is continuing the authorizing of enlistments in a wide choice of initial assignments, M. Sgt. Quillie N. Underwood, Army Recruiting station, Monroe, has announced. This policy is being continued in order to fill its ranks with qualified and career minded personnel.

Another incentive, the Army is offering prospective enlistees, Sgt. Underwood pointed out, is the Army Technical School Training Program, which allows high school graduates to actually select the training school of their choice and have their attendance guaranteed before they are required to enlist.

Sgt. Underwood listed the following choice of assignments as being available in the Regular Army: adjutant general's corps, armor, army medical service, artillery, chemical corps, corps of engineers, finance corps, infantry, military police corps, ordnance corps, quartermaster corps, signal corps, transportation corps, regular army unassigned and airborne unassigned.

It was pointed out by Sgt. Underwood that the Army maintains service schools to train personnel in all of these branches.

The U. S. Army recruiting station, located at Room 217, Post Office Bldg., Monroe, is open daily, except Sunday, to furnish expert assistance and advice to both men and women interested in a military career.

Call Him Back

Some years ago, a great American was serving his nation. He was attempting to win a war in which his troops were fighting and dying. As an American, he believed that it was his duty to stand by the American flag, to protect it, to serve it and to see it carried to victory.

However, something new had entered the scene. Curiously resembling the battle banner of the Russian Army, the flag of the "United Nations" ordered this unbelieving American officer to "hold the line." It ordered him not to destroy the enemy's power of retaliation. It ordered him to hold a line when he knew he could beat the enemy. It ordered him to force his army to stand and die but not to achieve victory. It ordered him to follow plans which had been carefully scrutinized by the Russian enemy.

For disagreeing and opposing this suicidal, un-American philosophy, General Douglas MacArthur was fired from his job.

A servant of the people whose only idea of fighting wars was victory, MacArthur was destined by the treacherous politicians at home for dishonor. In the prime of his career, they, in a midnight decision, recalled this great American from his position in the Far East and hauled him home. Those whom he had defeated even cried when he left and although the craven political hacks at home would have had the American people believe he was dishonored, the name of Douglas MacArthur rang as loud in American minds as the Liberty Bell.

Wherever he went, he was greeted by the joyful, thankful multitude until the name MacArthur became a hated symbol to those who tried to destroy him.

It has been said that the MacArthur dismissal was one of the main causes of the Trumanite defeat. If it defeated Truman, it can defeat you, Mr. Eisenhower.

General MacArthur is needed by his nation. Why is he not returned to duty? His country and his people want him, they need him, and Mr. Eisenhower, they might yet get him even over your strenuous objections.

Now is not a time for past discord to stand in the way of the benefit of United States.

Call him back, Mr. President, call him back, the United States wants and demands the services of Douglas MacArthur.

An American Responsibility Who Can You Trust?

Last week, at a meeting of the local Air Force Reserve unit, the speaker, having concluded a discussion of world affairs and a review of the present fearful situation, was asked, "who can you trust?"

The question came not from a confused mind, but from a man who seeing the subversives in government, the huge shipments of arms and atomic equipment to the Soviets, the advance of Marxism even in the United States and the corruption of the two major political parties, was afraid that even the United States government could no longer be trusted. To the question, the speaker answered that great hope could still be placed in the average American citizen who today realizes that something is terribly wrong but cannot put his hands on the reason due to the dreadful spread of perversion and slanting of the news by the official and supposed reliable sources.

Few people today bother to ferret out the truth of a given situation. In order to gain an estimate of the situation, one is forced to read "between" the lines. A good example of that is the Chinese Communist impending attack on Formosa. From the words and statements of the Communist government, it would appear that the invasion of Formosa is imminent. Chinese Nationalist sources tell the Morning World that the typhoon season will enable the Communists to take some of the smaller island "listening posts" along the coast.

Now, what does this have to do with your responsibility as Americans and reading between the lines? President Eisenhower stated in his news conference that the 7th Fleet would remain in the Formosa straits. He hinted but did not state, that the Communists would have to "come over" the 7th Fleet in order to invade Formosa.

Reading between the lines, you can see a veiled hint that the 7th Fleet may not be the guardian of Formosa after all. This newspaper has had it from a very reliable source in the national capital that "deals" have already been made with the British, deals which will result in the elimination of Formosa as a free bastion.

Now, you say, "but the President said Formosa would be protected." Read the "news release" again, read it very carefully.

This is merely one isolated instance among many which occur each day of the weeks rolling by. To doubt the existence of planned and deliberate confusion is to doubt the existence of reality. The American people are being deliberately confused. They are being told with a pat of the governmental hand that "everything's OK now, we're going to live in peaceful co-existence with the Communists." So, the average American pushes the problem of survival in these times to the darkest, remotest section of his brain and stops worrying.

Those who attempt to tell the truth and spread the alarm are termed "fanatics" and "rumormongers." Have the people of this nation lost the ability to think clearly in a given situation? Do they not realize that regular business, regular politics, regular golf, regular bridge, regular parties and gatherings must be relegated to places of their relative importance in a fight for survival with an enemy which shows no quarter.

Do the American people not realize that they are facing total and terrible destruction? Communists are spreading the word in this nation that "it won't be long now, you who are the oppressed will soon be the judges." Apparently, the Communists know what they are talking about.

This newspaper cannot help thinking about fat, soft, easy Athens—ancient Athens, grown filthy rich but rotten to the core. As the invaders were some thirty miles from the city, the harbingers of bad tidings ran through the city attempting to spread the alarm but were stoned and reviled for their efforts. Is there much difference today?

Yet, one cannot help but believe that many, very many Americans know of the present danger. The wild spree of high living which can be seen on every side is a good sign of a latent fear, a fear of impending trouble but not one easily recognized.

Americans, this nation was not founded by men and women who shoved reality into the back of their minds with "ah—tomorrow's another day" as their byword. This nation's pioneers met every problem when it came. They were eager to take part in the affairs of government. Now, it is almost impossible to get a majority of the voters to the polls unless "there is something important." Everything pertaining to public life is important in these days and times.

All around you are signs of chaos. Moral disintegration, war, turmoil, dreadful weapons, almost unimaginable weapons—aspects which reduce the mind to near frustration—yet, there is not the slightest use in burying one's head in the sand. The issues of today must be faced directly by every American. Informed sources state very clearly that the time is growing tragically short.

In these times, your responsibility is to "wake up" and face trouble instead of forgetting it. The responsibility rests in the hands of every American, young or old, no matter in what walk of life he may exist. Never in the history of the United States has the nation been faced with such a danger. If it can come through this crisis successfully which is now an issue in extreme doubt, it may emerge into a golden age, the extent of which cannot be presently realized.

The American people today are faced with one major difficulty which in the main was not realized by the founders of the nation. They seem to worship at some shrine of materialism rather than the Holy Altar. No product of the hands of man can ever replace God's marvelous works. The secret of the situation is simple to many people who now understand.

Faith in God, unaltered faith, may bring this nation through these trying and perilous times and into a Golden age, but man, (Americans in particular) must work for that end. They must face every obstacle with a resolute countenance declaring their love for God and country and an unaltered faith that through Him, is eventual salvation.

Man must not place faith in man. History proves that such is impossible.

Make Jimmy Daniels A Captain

One week ago today, the area lost a fine public servant and law enforcement officer. It will be hard to fill Roy Byrd's shoes, but there is a man who can do the job. He has been with the Louisiana State Police for 17 years. He has been a senior Lieutenant for more than two years. His services to this area deserve a reward.

Jimmy Daniels could fill the shoes of Captain Byrd if he was given a chance. He is known as an able and a fair man. He is well liked by his troopers and by all who know him. He is an extremely capable law enforcement officer. Lieutenant James Daniels of Police Troop "F" deserves promotion to the rank of Police Captain. It is hoped that Superintendent Grevenberg will speedily approve such a promotion. Jimmy Daniels will make a good captain.

The Test

It is not the usual practice of the Morning World to publish poetry in the Editorial Column. However, this poem is of such caliber as to be read by all Americans. Written by Edward Hersey Richards, it is one of the most descriptive pieces of literature to come across this desk in many a day.

As you read it, think—can you pass the test?

Can you meet life's issues bravely
And defy the form of style?
Can you hold your head up calmly
In disaster, with a smile?

Can you sacrifice each treasure
And give thanks for pain and toil?
Can you bury loved ones hopeful
In the boxom of the soil?

Can you let beloved ambition
Fade away as does the light,
When the sun has kissed the hilltops
In the cradle of the night?

Can you let your humble verses
Bear another writer's name
And be silent as you see him
Reach the pinnacle of fame?

Can you brook the spear of insult
And be sweet and kind and true
And forgive the unforgiving
For the deeds you did not do?

Can you trace the years before you
Knowing each may show a loss?
If you can, you know the Master
And the meaning of the Cross.

My God and My All

I LOVE my spouse with all my heart
... I love our children, too ...
But more than unto them, my God
... Allowed my soul to live ... And so I offer you my love ...
As much as I can give ... Perhaps my selfish love for them ... Appears to be so great ... That my affection for you, God ... Must be of lesser weight ... And yet, my Lord and Master, how ... Could I adore You less ... When You have fashioned each of us ... And all our happiness? ... The heartfelt love I have for them ... And all I think and do ... Are just a small reflection of ... The love I offer You.

Who's Got The Money?

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

We all know the cost of living is not coming down. Instead it is climbing higher all the time. We thought (that is most of us) that the cost of living had about reached its highest peak when the Korean war was on for three years, but that was not so; it is higher now than at any time in history and looks as if it is going still higher. There is nothing to indicate that it will come down. There is nothing being done as I know of that will bring the cost of living down to where it should be so the people can live.

This is a subject that everyone talks about (at times) but no one does anything about it. You haven't heard the high cost of living discussed in Congress, but you can hear them discussing everything else and some things they discuss are not worth very much to all the American people. It seems for the past few months they are talking politics and playing politics preparatory to launching the campaign this fall. The small business men are feeling the weight of these hard times—many of them are going to be forced out of business. There is no one to buy their merchandise. Business as we know it is extremely dull and that goes for all businesses—the large ones as well as the small ones. They are asking the important question, "Where is business, where is all the money gone? who has got the money?" and like questions. They must pay rent when due, if they are renting, and the many other expenses that go to keep a business going and paying a profit which all businesses must do if they are to remain in business. To make the story short, where is their meat and bread coming from if business does not pick up? And there is little prospect of that in the future years to come.

To say the least the country, as a whole, is in bad financially. That is the way the thing stands today. No business no profit. This condition didn't come about in a day or month or a year; it has been coming for a very long time as most people will agree. Now, let's look at the picture from another way, and see as we move it about if we can locate some good times for all of us, in other words, some prosperity for all. We know there is plenty of money in this country; the banks are chock full of money so they say and from the way they are spending it we have no reason to doubt it. The money that is getting out of the banks somehow is now getting into the hands of the people that will spend it, therefore, that makes business bad. You can spend money only when you have it to spend—that is a fact to remember.

There will never be any more real and lasting prosperity until conditions have changed and people can get back on the farms and turn the soil or Mother Earth like they once did in these United States. You must allow the farmer to be a free man. You must abolish all these government restrictions—such as price supports and get back to free competition in the production of the good things of life. Our agricultural set up for the entire U. S. is owned and run by a handful of experts that know nothing of the farmers' problems, or his needs and as a result of all this foolish spending and experiments you see we have millions on top of millions of pounds of surplus foods of all kinds that the people have produced that they can't get. Under the support price system, when the government finds out there is a big crop of anything produced and the people do not have the money to buy the crop and they can see that if sold at a cheaper price, would make it cheaper to all consumers, the government steps into the picture and buys up the surplus crops, takes them off the market and stores them away and brands them "surplus foods." This is done with the taxpayers honest dollars. The government has gone into the farming business with your money. Your farming is fully controlled from Washington. You are allowed to farm only by permission from the government. They set the prices you are to receive for your various crops and tell you what you must pay when you buy and then on top of all that you claim the honor of being an independent farmer—a free man.

The Republicans have failed and they know it: so they know now that the Democrats are going back into office this fall and in 1956. The Democrats will have a majority in the lower house and they will have a small majority in the upper house. We didn't have it so good under the Democrats, but let that be as it may. The Democrats will win this fall and in 1956.

D. G. CHATHAM

All In The Family

Mer Rouge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

For a long time the Forum has been freighted with a heavy load of discussion of the Communists, the subversives, the left wingers, the Reds, the Pinks, fellow travelers, and what not. Reading the many letters makes me wonder if the writers know what they are discussing, or are just listening to their own heads rattle. None of the adverse criticism has ever carried a single line of constructive comment. They try to impress one as having a pipe line running direct from their bed-sides to the source of the thing discussed. If these pipe liners have access to inside information to what occurs in the different departments in Washington, why do they scream like a wounded calf about secret sessions, suppressed news and a hobbled press?

Communist? Bosh! Not to mention Boo! If there were just one half as many Communists cluttering up the premises that the writers claim they can see or enumerate, then our country is past redemption. It puzzles the writer to understand why these many alleged Communists do not take over the reins of government. There would be no opposition except the modern nostradamus who profess to see evil in our elected officials in Washington.

To be sure we do have Communists and we have had them, by another name, since the founding of the Republic. We have Communist, Anarchist, Nihilist, Socialist, and embracers of every doctrine the mind of man could conjure up, including voodooism. It's a privilege guaranteed by the Constitution, but there is nothing in that Constitution that warrants any one of the above list to attempt to destroy his government by physical force. That was definitely settled at Appomattox.

It is a popular sport to snipe our Presidents, F. D. Roosevelt and H. S. Truman have time and time again been accused of selling our country down the river. Pray, what river did they sell us down? How any man with the brains that one could force through the eye of a cambric needle with a lone strand of silk, can rightly think a man sitting in the highest seat the world affords, since creation, would sell out, is a puzzle of the ages. General Eisenhower is now undergoing the torture of the anvil chorus. Will some of the accusers please enlighten us on the price General Eisenhower is supposed to have gotten? Naturally being human, all three made errors but sell out? Never! All right, then tell: Where sold? When sold? What price? The three made mistakes. Not one of the presidents from General Washington to General Eisenhower, inclusive, were infallible.

If we are to accept sacred history, there was only one perfect man, but he was never President of these United States. All acts of our presidents could, in all probability, in light of subsequent knowledge, be improved, were the Monday Morning Quarterbacks supplied with Dr. Wonnung's time machine. To a certain farmer sitting in a jug handle of the Bonnet, it appears our major trouble at present is too much wild talk. Our opinion is not weighty, but we stand on the thesis that a country is no better than its citizenry. A nation of many breeds and miscellaneous thinking, we become divided on both major and minor questions of policy and threaten to cut "Buddy's" throat. Let an alien take a hand and he will find he has been dealt a shillelagh across his silly pate.

Both Roosevelt and Truman made as fine a president as the nation ever had. Evidence of proof can be seen on every side. Take a ride out in a wide circuit and count the thousands of cars, tractors, trucks, bull dozers, draglines, buses, airplanes, power lines, telephone lines, new homes to which power lines and telephone lines run, and note the evidence of TVA and railroads. The entire country is a better place than it was when a Communist heads the government of the United States and that day will come just as surely as the sun rises. The government will not be a capitalist government but a Soviet government and behind this government will stand the Red army to enforce the dictatorship." (unquote).

Get to thinking friends!

Timmons Stands Alone

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have been following with interest the editorial pages on your two newspapers. May I congratulate you on your splendid work.

Since I am in full accord with the views of the late, lamented Senator Taft, Col. McCormick and yourself, I find little to complain about concerning your magnificent stand for isolation, McCarthyism and Conservative Republicanism.

However, will you allow me this minor criticism? It concerns our selection of columnists. I was very happy to see recently your inclusion of columnist David Lawrence in the News-Star. He stands with George Sokolsky, Westbrook Pegler, Fulton Lewis, Jr., Walter Winchell—all of whom are in accord with our ideas thereby deserving a place on the editorial pages. However, I do wish you would find someone else who thinks as we do to take the place of this columnist (fellow). I think he tends to lean in the middle-of-the-road Democratic camp. Please consider this suggestion. It would be well if all your columnists were of our belief. As it is, Timmons alone stands in the way.

CARL HARRIS.

Editor, Morning World:

I have been a reader of your newspaper and the News-Star since World War II began, and especially interested since Harry Truman's war. I so much admire the position you have taken (editorially) since the last presidential campaign—so strange for a deep southern newspaper to take the views of the World and News-Star do. Always fair and impartial to all political and domestic subjects and fearless of any individual or political group.

I feel like every voter in Louisiana, in fact our nation, owes you a debt of gratitude that we never can repay except through the columns of your paper for what you have given us concerning the situation in Washington, especially the truth about the Joe McCarthy vs. Secretary Stevens case.

Regardless of class, creed, political or religious group my hat is off to the Morning World and News-Star—they are the only papers editorially that have brought us voters the new political group "The Advance." The Advance is a political racket of the left wing Republicans and some of Harry's hangers-on. How apparent it is that the pinks and friends of Roosevelt—Socialists and Communists found their way into nearly every department of the federal government. I think the editorial, "A Necessary Denial to the Republican National Committee," is a masterpiece of writing. It's a challenge to any political group. If they are guilty or not guilty, I would like to see their reply.

Yes, I supported the administration ticket and would again if Adlai Stevenson is on the opposing side, but I'm still looking for the "clean up the mess" in Washington to start, and rid Washington of every pink or Red lobbyist of every house of congress and a bill to outlaw the Communist party on American soil. I'm looking forward to the time Joe McCarthy and other chairmen of congressional committees have a free hand to all the records in Washington. I hope this little note can be allowed to be printed in the people's forum.

Who's Got The Money?

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

We all know the cost of living is not coming down. Instead it is climbing higher all the time. We thought (that is most of us) that the cost of living had about reached its highest peak when the Korean war was on for three years, but that was not so; it is higher now than at any time in history and looks as if it is going still higher. There is nothing to indicate that it will come down. There is nothing being done as I know of that will bring the cost of living down to where it should be so the people can live.

This is a subject that everyone talks about (at times) but no one does anything about it. You haven't heard the high cost of living discussed in Congress, but you can hear them discussing everything else and some things they discuss are not worth very much to all the American people. It seems for the past few months they are talking politics and playing politics preparatory to launching the campaign this fall. The small business men are feeling the weight of these hard times—many of them are going to be forced out of business. There is no one to buy their merchandise. Business as we know it is extremely dull and that goes for all businesses—the large ones as well as the small ones. They are asking the important question, "Where is business, where is all the money gone? who has got the money?" and like questions. They must pay rent when due, if they are renting, and the many other expenses that go to keep a business going and paying a profit which all businesses must do if they are to remain in business. To make the story short, where is their meat and bread coming from if business does not pick up? And there is little prospect of that in the future years to come.

To say the least the country, as a whole, is in bad financially. That is the way the thing stands today. No business no profit. This condition didn't come about in a day or month or a year; it has been coming for a very long time as most people will agree. Now, let's look at the picture from another way, and see as we move it about if we can locate some good times for all of us, in other words, some prosperity for all. We know there is plenty of money in this country; the banks are chock full of money so they say and from the way they are spending it we have no reason to doubt it. The money that is getting out of the banks somehow is now getting into the hands of the people that will spend it, therefore, that makes business bad. You can spend money only when you have it to spend—that is a fact to remember.

There will never be any more real and lasting prosperity until conditions have changed and people can get back on the farms and turn the soil or Mother Earth like they once did in these United States. You must allow the farmer to be a free man. You must abolish all these government restrictions—such as price supports and get back to free competition in the production of the good things of life. Our agricultural set up for the entire U. S. is owned and run by a handful of experts that know nothing of the farmers' problems, or his needs and as a result of all this foolish spending and experiments you see we have millions on top of millions of pounds of surplus foods of all kinds that the people have produced that they can't get. Under the support price system, when the government finds out there is a big crop of anything produced and the people do not have the money to buy the crop and they can see that if sold at a cheaper price, would make it cheaper to all consumers, the government steps into the picture and buys up the surplus crops, takes them off the market and stores them away and brands them "surplus foods." This is done with the taxpayers honest dollars. The government has gone into the farming business with your money. Your farming is fully controlled from Washington. You are allowed to farm only by permission from the government. They set the prices you are to receive for your various crops and tell you what you must pay when you buy and then on top of all that you claim the honor of being an independent farmer—a free man.

The Republicans have failed and they know it: so they know now that the Democrats are going back into office this fall and in 1956. The Democrats will have a majority in the lower house and they will have a small majority in the upper house. We didn't have it so good under the Democrats, but let that be as it may. The Democrats will win this fall and in 1956.

Timmons Stands Alone

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have been following with interest the editorial pages on your two newspapers. May I congratulate you on your splendid work.

Since I am in full accord with the views of the late, lamented Senator Taft, Col. McCormick and yourself, I find little to complain about concerning your magnificent stand for isolation, McCarthyism and Conservative Republicanism.

However, will you allow me this minor criticism? It concerns our selection of columnists. I was very happy to see recently your inclusion of columnist David Lawrence in the News-Star. He stands with George Sokolsky, Westbrook Pegler, Fulton Lewis, Jr., Walter Winchell—all of whom are in accord with our ideas thereby deserving a place on the editorial pages. However, I do wish you would find someone else who thinks as we do to take the place of this columnist (fellow). I think he tends to lean in the middle-of-the-road Democratic camp. Please consider this suggestion. It would be well if all your columnists were of our belief. As it is, Timmons alone stands in the way.

actually broke the back of the southern cause.

What I am here suggesting is simply this — Abe Lincoln did not free the slaves out of any friendship but for necessity or at least expediency. There is no way possible from this incident to establish Mr. Lincoln as a "friend of the Negro" as Mr. Hilton suggested. Certainly not according to the concept of friendship that I have.

Another bold but equally fallacious statement that Mr. Hilton made was that "God Almighty's masterpiece in this world is the white woman, the emblem of his angels." Now certainly Mr. Hilton does not believe this himself. There is so much that can be said to refute that statement that it would require a much more spacious medium to voice them all. But could we not agree that there is a bit of the divine in all human beings, with no particular group possessing a monopoly? Could we not also agree that there are other qualities besides those connected with the divine in all of us, the white woman included? The white woman, like all other women, have their share of divine qualities but if we are going to assume that they are God's masterpiece in this world, the emblem of his angels, then perhaps the time is ripe for us to seek another, more saintly God. For if God Almighty has those women we find in the shadows of any city as the emblem of his angels, then I do not marvel in his angels. Suffice it to say that Mr. Hilton has mis-estimated the divine.

After all is said and done, Mr. Hilton's letter reveals that he is desperately trying to recapture the past that is gone, never to return again. Perhaps we ought try to live in the present or not at all.

UN Charter Framed Along Communist Lines

Bastrop, La.
Editor, Morning World:

It is bewildering to me to see so many people who seem to be in the underlying objectives of the U. N. Its forefront, "the charter" is emblazoned with pleasant sounding tones of security and progressiveness. The first sentence in the preamble of the charter reads, "We the peoples of the United Nations determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind; and to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small."

Now to read this preamble in the context of its structure: sounds good to anyone who is looking for a resting place in the shade of trees, by the brook of cool waters, in a land flowing with milk and honey. But it sounds ridiculous to those who are experienced in the routine of life's adventures, and who know the attributes that contribute to freedom and security: they know that it behooves every man to keep a shotgun or a sixshooter handy to protect their homes against invasion by thieves, burglars, and rapists. Many also keep a bulldog or a well trained German police dog to aid in this protection. Banks use electric time locks, and burglar alarms. We have to keep a well organized police force to protect our lives, while on the streets and highways. With all these and many more attributes attached to our everyday domestic lives, how much more important is it for us to guard our country against invasion by our enemies? We all know that the greater the prize, the greater the temptation is to steal. The United States owns as much gold and silver as all the rest of the world combined. Then isn't it obvious that those foreign thieves would use every means and measure available to rob us? If we can't rely on our own morals for internal security, then would it be sense to rely on the morals of our enemies for protection?

Andrei Gromyko was the principal Russian delegate to the second convention in San Francisco and was one of the principal writers and framers of the charter of the United Nations. From the first article to the last word, this charter was framed strictly in line with the principles and techniques of Communist philosophy. In the rules of parliamentary procedure in the Security Council, Gromyko reserved the right of veto, which he has used more than sixty times in nine years to block intervention and keep the way open for the advancement of Communist power. The very first obligation in this charter is for all nations to work together to attain and maintain peace. History does not record an era of time when the world was in a more turbulent condition than it has been in for the last nine years. We have only to take a brief glance at world history to clearly see that the UN is nothing but a protectorate for the advancement of world communism; sponsored and propagated by the so-called W.C.C. Gen. Clark, rightly pronounced the UN a "valuable asset for the Russians to keep spies and saboteurs spawning around over here."

Abraham Lincoln is on record as saying "If the United States are ever overthrown it will be from within, not from without." Until recently, the combined world knew better than to attack the United States, but since the Communists, socialists, liberals and laborites, and God knows what else, have had free access to public offices and jobs in government departments for the last 22 years; they have reduced American morale to the point of skepticism that even Red China had the audacity to dare the United States. Right here let me call your attention to like's opposition to outlawing the Communist party. Consider it in connection with these and many other relative facts, will you please? Can we do anything about it? Yes, invoke the order of ostracism. And get the U. S. out of the U. N. and kick the U. N. out of the U. S. And go ahead on our own business and quit dabbling in other folks' affairs. Sweden and Switzerland are good examples for this policy.

'Explorer's Club' Says 'Stay At Home And See The World'

"Stay at Home and See the World" is the motto being accepted by a group in Monroe who will form the first "Explorer's Club" in Louisiana. The club, being promoted by George Turner, founder of the Explorer Club of Yakutsk, is a national dinner-lecture organization of men and women who explore the world by the armchair route.

At monthly meetings on the Cherokee terrace of the Hotel Frances distinguished world travelers will present in person their travels of all countries. They are the same as presented in Town Hall in New York. In addition, the travelers are illustrated by feature-length movies in full color. The menus for each meeting will feature the foreign foods of the countries being discussed. Native music and decor will be used.

Foundation For Civil Defense Called 'Solid'

The foundation for a "solid long range Civil Defense program has been laid in the 12 parishes of northeast Louisiana" Clay Johnson, state CD field representative, told members of the Monroe Pilot Club at its regular meeting this week. The group met at the Frances Hotel for a special CD meeting.

Johnson said the volunteer efforts of many citizens, the support of public officials and the backing of such organizations as the Pilot Club have resulted in the progress of the organization. Listed as the six major projects in the overall program were: (1) opening of a district CD headquarters in Monroe; (2) financial assistance by municipalities and parishes; (3) training of 237 citizens in basic civil defense; (4) training of 48 persons in rescue work; (5) development of mutual aid agreements among the 12 parishes of the district; and (6) appointment of a district civil defense and its active participation.

In his talk Johnson pointed out that the hydrogen bomb and other new weapons makes civil defense essential for survival. "We can be hit by these very destructive weapons, but we can survive if the people know what to expect, how to protect themselves and are prepared to join in the fight for survival," he said. "Although the hydrogen bomb increased the area of total destruction, it also increased the area of heavy, moderate and light damage and the necessity for civil defense operations in those areas."

In commenting the Pilot Club for support of civil defense, Johnson pointed out that Emma Lou Perkins and Anna Mae Beece of the organization had attended the federal civil defense staff college in Olney, Md. and are active members of the Monroe women's rescue squad. Johnson also pointed out that the rescue squad, which headed by Mrs. Perkins, participated in the May state civil defense exercise at Alexandria and was commended by federal officials for its efficiency.

Business Revival Gains Momentum As Fall Nears

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—The nation's business this week turned in a solid performance for a time of year that's traditionally slow.

Although a few soft spots persisted, there were many signs of basic strength to back up the Commerce Department's report the other day that the gross national product—value of services and goods—had ended a nine-month decline.

Bank clearings, business loans, soft coal production and retail sales showed gains, and the oil industry welcomed a firming of sagging price.

Big news for coffee drinkers was a general cut of 10 cents a pound in retail prices resulting from an easing of Brazilian export regulations.

The stock market, reflecting confidence of investors in future business prospects, continued close to a 24-year high.

While automobile output was only a little over the previous week's 1954 low as the car makers prepared to switch to 1955 models, stocks of unsold new cars dipped to an 18-month low.

An historic development on the industrial scene was approval by stockholders of both firms of the merger of the last of the independent automobile manufacturers, Studebaker and Packard.

Aimed at putting the new 251-million-dollar Studebaker-Packard Corp. in better position for the hot competitive battle for the auto market, the merger follows similar moves by Nash and Hudson, and Willys and Kaiser.

As the auto makers prepared for new models they curtailed their orders from the giant steel industry but, according to the Iron Age, the slack is being offset by an increase in miscellaneous orders from small users. And as production of new model cars begins, the industry weekly continued, an uptick in steel buying can be expected.

Steel production for the week was scheduled at 62 per cent of capacity, a decline of two points from last week's actual production. However, in recent weeks actual production often has run a little ahead of the previously scheduled rate.

The oil industry, troubled the past few months by unwieldy surpluses, was cheered by an end to declines in wholesale prices. In fact, major companies in the eastern part of the country raised wholesale gasoline prices eight tenths of a cent a gallon, expected to result in a penny increase to motorists.

Meanwhile, the Texas railroad commission raised by 62.415 barrels a day the allowable quota of the state's oil production for September.

Freight car loadings, which had sagged in recent months, increased nearly three per cent to 685,277 for the past week. Electrical energy distribution at 8,996,000,000 kilowatt hours held within less than two per cent of the record high for the week ended July 31 and remained 5.7 per cent above the 1953 level.

Soft coal production rose nearly 5 per cent to 7,560,000 tons, although that was still well under a year ago.

Dun & Bradstreet reported bank clearings in 25 cities totaled $19,025,570,000 for the week for a gain of 5.5 per cent over the previous week and 9.6 per cent over a year ago. And the Federal Reserve said business loans by banks increased 59 million dollars.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that higher food prices sent its cost of living index up slightly in July to 115.2 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This marked the third straight month of rising living costs and restored an automatic pay increase of a penny an hour to about a million auto, aircraft and farm equipment manufacturing workers with contracts tied to the index. But in a report covering a more recent period, Dun & Bradstreet said its index of wholesale food prices dropped this week to the lowest point since Feb. 2 on the strength of sharp declines in corn and coffee.

Minimum Charge Is Increased For Intrastate Hauls

A change in the minimum charge for intrastate hauls will go into effect Monday, Harry Dixon, representative of the transportation committee, Monroe - West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, pointed out Saturday. The change will up rates from $1.40 to $1.61 and is applicable to all Louisiana carriers and to the Missouri Pacific railroad.

The change as passed by the Louisiana public service commission in a special hearing on August 13 at which time the local Chamber of Commerce transportation committee opposed the initial move of the shippers to increase intrastate rates from $1.40 to $2.00.

Dixon reported that the Chamber of Commerce was joined in the case by the Shreveport and Baton Rouge Chambers of Commerce and the New Orleans Traffic and Transportation Bureau.

Shippers claimed, Dixon said, that additional labor and equipment costs on intrastate hauls were forcing them to suffer loss on certain routes in that they were not receiving ample compensation for their services.

Dixon reported that in the initial move the shippers tried to equate intrastate minimum charges with interstate minimum rates, which would have placed the rates at a $2 minimum figure.

As a result of the rebuttal of the Chamber of Commerce an agreement was reached at $1.61 by the Louisiana public service commission on August 13 and the 24 cents rate hike.

90 Members Of European Royalty Go On Cruise

MARSEILLE, France, Aug. 21.—The Greek luxury liner Agamemnon sailed Saturday on a truly royal tour of the Greek isles with a guest passenger list confined to European bluebloods invited by King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece.

The idea of the royal tour, with King Paul and Queen Frederika serving as royal hosts, was conceived as an event to attract world tourists to the storied Greek islands in the Mediterranean, Aegean and Ionian Seas.

Britain's royal family sent its regrets, as did King Baudouin of Belgium, but more than 90 members of the European royalty, including Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, will take part in the 12-day cruise.

Since all those aboard except the hand-picked crew will be of royal blood, the usual protocol was banished. Men will wear short-sleeved white shirts with their dress trousers at dinner, and the ladies will wear light afternoon dresses.

Fifteen passengers, half of them from the reigning family of Luxembourg, boarded the Agamemnon at Marseille. The remainder will come aboard at Naples. Former King Umberto of Italy, who is forbidden to return to Italy, will board the ship at Corfu.

During the 12-day cruise, the Agamemnon will visit Corfu and Katakolon, Crete, Rhodes, Santorin, Delos, Mykonos, Cape Sounion, and Heraklion. At Athens, the royal guests will be received by King Paul and Queen Frederika.

Greek shipping magnate D. N. Nomikos is leading the Agamemnon to the Greek isles at an estimated cost of $30,000. Additional financial aid for the cruise came from the late shipowner D. Eugenidis, who left the king and queen $30,000 in his will.

Fort Necessity Burglary Solved, Officers Report

WINNSBORO, Aug. 21 (Special).—Franklin parish sheriff's department officials said Saturday that two arrests in Houston, Tex., and another in Los Angeles, Calif., have solved a May 27 burglary of a Fort Necessity mercantile company.

Deputy Sheriff Mack Rogilio said that two Columbia brothers, Arlin Robert Carr, 39, and Willie Vaden Carr, 17, have been indicted in Franklin parish jail charged with simple burglary in connection with the theft of more than $250 in merchandise from the R. S. Bonner mercantile store at Fort Necessity in May. The two men were arrested by Houston, Tex., police on request from Franklin officials who found part of the Bonner loot in the home of the older brother.

Both men have confessed to the burglary charge and implicated two other youths, Sammy Ferrington, of near Jazzer, has been arrested by Los Angeles police and is being held for extradition to Louisiana. The fourth suspect, a juvenile, has been released to his parents in Franklin parish.

Officers say they recovered a shotgun, a quantity of ammunition, two pairs of shoes, and an assortment of clothing taken in the Bonner burglary.

The arrests also yielded a power lawnmower and another shotgun reportedly taken from Fletch Burns, Wisner, in an earlier burglary.

The Carr brothers are being held under bond of $1500.

FACING FACTS

Milk cow numbers in the United States have increased 6 per cent since January 1, 1952. This increase was caused by saving more heifers and a relatively low rate of culling milk cows. The same culling rate in 1954 as in 1953 would result in a further increase in cow numbers by 2 or 3 per cent. The culling rate needs to be increased 10 per cent over the 1953 rate to hold cow numbers at the level of January 1, 1954. A cow that makes no money for the dairyman is also a hindrance to the dairy industry. Additional production helps build up the surplus of dairy products and depresses prices for the entire dairy industry.

Northeast's Fall Semester Signup To Open Sept. 15

Northeast State will begin the fall semester with registration for regular classes scheduled September 15 through September 17. Classes will hold initial meetings during the week of September 20. Students enrolling only for late afternoon and Saturday classes will register September 18 from 8 to 12 a.m.

Persons matriculating for the first time at Northeast and summer school freshmen are to register on Monday, September 15. All others, excepting those taking only special classes, are to enroll on the two following days.

High school graduates and students transferring from other colleges are asked to have their transcripts of credits to facilitate enrollment procedure. Veterans who will enter college this fall should bring their certificates of eligibility to avoid delay in registering.

Northeast will use the alphabetical plan of registration as it has proved in past years convenient for students. B. S. Hammer, registrar, said.

The time schedule for beginning students and summer school freshmen is set for September 15, according to the following arrangement: A-C, 11-12 a.m.; D-G, 1-2 p.m.; H-L, 2-3 p.m.; M-R, 3-4 p.m.; S-Z, 4-5 p.m.

Other students enrolling in regular classes wait or leave the following schedule: September 16-A, 8-9 a.m.; B, 9-10 a.m.; C, 10-11 a.m.; D, 11-12 a.m.; E, 1-2 p.m.; F, 2-3 p.m.; G, 3-4 p.m.; H, 4-5 p.m.; I, J, K, 3-4 p.m.

Check your home freezer and canning supplies now before the rush begins in food preservation work this summer. For freezing, be sure that all wrappings are moisture-vapor-resistant. Many types of wrappings are available — bags in boxes, wax lined containers, plastic and aluminum boxes, and wrapping paper such as aluminum foil, polyfilm, and polyethylene. For home canning, see that the canner is in good shape. Check the jar or tin can supply. Get the necessary small equipment for easy canning — jar lifter, tongs, measuring cups and spoons, etc.

Proper Tools Cost Little—Mean So Much

The old saying, "well begun is half done" points up the importance of starting a child off to school, well equipped with all the necessary tools and supplies to ease his work and speed his progress.

First days at school are of the utmost importance. They often set the tone and pace for the whole year's performance. The child who has what he needs when he needs it, quickly gains a sense of confidence and a pride of achievement that gets him off to a good start.

Probably no other items on the back-to-school budget cost so little as supplies and tools. Yet none looms larger in paving the way to parent-pleasing marks on the report card.

The wise parent respects the child's wishes in making the selections for the back-to-school kit. Thus, she spurs interest and gives him a sense of responsibility for the proper use and care of his equipment.

Basic is the school bag or brief case. These are available in a wide range of designs and materials from handsome leathers to colorful plastics. Some have outside pockets for carrying lunch.

Check quality points closely especially those bearing on durability. School bags must stand up under long, hard usage. Generally the sturdiest bag will prove the best investment.

It costs so little more to get the best in school supplies that "quality first" is a good rule to follow in choosing all such items as notebooks, pads, pencil boxes, pens, automatic pencils, lunch boxes, etc. Pennies of extra cost are more than justified in the child's pride and satisfaction in having tools he can depend on for efficient performance.

Many school supplies are decorated with western and other favorite characters. This association with an admired hero will often spur a child's interest in the proper use and care of his tools for the pursuit of learning.

Notebooks of leather or plastic and school bags or brief cases should be monogrammed or inscribed with the child's name; another job to his pride of possession.

Important to a child's school progress is the work done at home. He should be provided with a quiet place to study well equipped with such aids as a good dictionary, a still, an encyclopedia and an atlas or globe.

Teacher Fired By School Board Wants Job Back

OPEROUSAS, La. — Robert Olivier, a Washington High School teacher fired several months ago after turmoil over "progressive education," today asked the school board to reinstate him.

Attorneys Paul Tate of Mamou and R. J. Vidrine of Ville Platte said they had advised him to petition the St. Landry Parish board in order to avoid an expensive court appeal.

Olivier was suspended and two other teachers fired last March after Olivier charged at a mass meeting that school officials were adhering to "progressive education" theories.

The little town of Washington, five miles east of here, split into two camps and the school closed was for a week as merits and demerits of "progressive education" were argued.

The board, after long consideration, fired Olivier. He was assistant principal and a teacher for 30 years.

KEEP A CLEAN DUST CLOTH

Dust cloths are useful only if clean. Wash them in a batch of thick suds after you finish your housekeeping for the day. For a well-treated cloth at small expense, treat it by pouring two tablespoons of lemon oil furniture polish into a glass jar. Swish it around until entire inside of jar is coated. Pour out any excess liquid. Then thoroughly wipe the inside of the jar with a sheer, soft cotton cloth, and then leave the cloth in the jar for a day. The cloth will soak up the polish evenly. When cloth becomes soiled from using, wash it out and repeat the process. The jar makes a good storage place since it is both clean and safe from spontaneous combustion.

First Division Of Marines Will Stay In Korea

SEOUL, Sunday, Aug. 22 (Special).—The U. S. 1st Marine Division is staying right where it is—in the Korean front line—says the man who should know, Marine Corps Commandant Gen. Lemuel Shepherd.

The four-star Marine chief hopped from a Navy transport into a driving rainstorm here yesterday and told reporters:

"As long as there are requirements for troops in Korea the Marines are ready and anxious to do their part."

Shepherd flattened rumors that the Leathernecks soon would pack up and move to Okinawa where amphibious training might be more to the Marines liking.

The Far East Command announced Friday the withdrawal of the 25th and 2nd Army Divisions as part of its plan to pull out four infantry divisions by the end of 1954.

Two other divisions remain to be identified. There are recurring, but unconfirmed reports that the 7th Division, which served in Korea during military government days, will remain behind.

Shepherd said the Marines are in as good a location as any to fulfill American military requirements anywhere in the Pacific.

Louisiana Tries Thrifty Methods Of Road Building

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 21 (Special) — The Highway Department, ever on the lookout for better and more economical methods of construction, is doing practical research on bridge construction employing prestressed concrete blocks for beams.

George Covert, Highway director, said that engineers had been searching for construction methods which would meet the following requirements: low initial cost, speedy erection, and low maintenance cost.

The first completed experimental structure was built over Beaver Creek on State Route 337 in Livingston Parish by State construction forces under the supervision of District Engineer R. T. Brooks.

The project was set up to replace a timber structure 80 feet long which was in bad condition and at the same time provide information on the Bryan and Dozier Prestressed concrete block beam manufactured by the Louisiana Concrete Products Co. of Baton Rouge.

Each beam consisted of 28 concrete blocks stressed with strand cables to a tension strength of 9000 pounds. After the construction of foundation caps the prestressed block beams were lowered into position with cranes. A concrete floor was then poured around and over the beams. This method required a total of 41 working days.

H. D. Kimball, project engineer, kept cost records which were shown to come to $131.46 per lineal foot.

The completed bridge presents a pleasing appearance and it is classified as a permanent type structure.

Covert said that final decision on the extensive use of this new construction method waits further study and more exhaustive tests. "However, present results are encouraging," Covert said. "The Department will always investigate possibilities of giving the people of Louisiana better service for less on their highways."

Demonstration By Women Prisoners

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 21 (AP) — Extra policemen were called out today to put down an angry demonstration by about 350 shouting prisoners at North Carolina Women's prison here. No one was injured, a prison official said.

The demonstration, one source said, was touched off by the death last night of an 18-year-old Negro inmate, Eleanor Rush. She was found dead in an isolation cell. Prison director William F. Bailey earlier had said there were no marks of violence on the body and no indication of suicide. He ordered an autopsy.

Florida Salesman Dies In Monroe Of Heart Attack

An elderly Auburndale, Fla. salesman stopping-off in Monroe suffered a heart attack in a downtown department store Saturday afternoon, and died a few minutes later in an ambulance en route to St. Francis Sanitarium.

He was identified by Ouachita Parish Coroner Dr. J. T. French, as Richard Dalmar, about 60. The coroner said that Dalmar slumped to the floor in the Morgan and Lindsey department store in Monroe around 2 p.m. Bystanders started to take him to the hospital in a cab, but a Mulhearn ambulance was summoned and made the trip instead.

The coroner said that Dalmar was dead on arrival at the hospital. He attributed death to coronary occlusion, and said that notes found in the dead man's pockets indicated that he had suffered frequent heart attacks, and had been expecting a fatal seizure. One note from a physician prescribed treatments for the salesman.

Police yesterday afternoon talked by phone with Dalmar's wife, who said that she would arrive in Monroe Sunday afternoon to arrange for shipment of the body, which was taken to the Mulhearn Funeral Home.

700,000 Workers In West Germany Threaten Strike

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 21 (AP)—Danger of a strike by West Germany's 700,000 public transport and utility workers grew tonight as their 52,000 co-workers in West Berlin voted down a five per cent compromise wage increase.

Whether a nationwide strike will be held depends on the results of the balloting throughout West Germany on the wage offer.

If a majority rejects the compromise, which represents half their demands, a strike vote will be called.

Ballots were mailed out Tuesday. Berlin's vote was completed first. The results of the nationwide balloting are not expected before Monday.

The monthly salary of a public transport and utility worker averages between $71 and $83. Ninety-six per cent of the Berlin workers voted against the compromise offer. Union leaders said it was an indication of union sentiment throughout the country.

A strike would tie up public transportation and water and gas service in every city and town in West Germany with the exception of Hamburg.

Fifteen thousand employees at Hamburg, West Germany's largest city, won a 1.6-cents-an-hour wage increase Aug. 12 after a nine-day strike.

Cotton Prices In Domestic Market Gain Moderately

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton prices in the domestic market continued to move irregularly last week, but closed the period with moderate net gains.

At the end of trading Friday, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were up 9 to 24 points from the level of the week before. New life-of-contract highs were made by all active months from May inward.

The principal sustaining factor was the continued hot, dry weather in most sections of the belt. This strengthened the belief by many that the next official forecast of the crop will be somewhat lower than the Aug. 1 report.

By BILL LEWIS

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 21 (UP)—The selection of Camille Gravel as Louisiana's national Democratic committeeman has been interpreted generally as a vote against Gov. Robert F. Kennon's administration and, in a wider sense, as an indication of his unpopularity in the state.

Kennon cannot succeed himself as governor anyway. But where does it leave the defeated candidate for the past, Sen. Robert A. Ainsworth, Jr., of New Orleans, Kennon's Senate floor leader?

Ainsworth is admired and greatly respected by virtually all his fellow legislators, regardless of which side of the political fence they are on, and by the people of the state generally.

He has been mentioned prominently as one of the few men from New Orleans who would have any chance at all of ever becoming governor—a goal Ainsworth has readily admitted to friends he is desirous of eventually reaching.

His personal charm, ability and—as Kennon called it—"forceful ability" would have to overcome three strikes already against him: he is from New Orleans, he is a Catholic, and he was born in Gulfport, Miss. No man who has ever been elected governor was born outside the state. And his defeat for national committeeman won't help him politically in the future.

In national politics, Ainsworth's record is acceptable to state Democrats. He voted for Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson in the 1952 presidential election although he took no active part in the campaigning. Kennon actively supported Mr. Eisenhower and persuaded 300,000 Louisianians to vote with him.

Gravel's selection by the committee was evidence that the Democrats are still smarting at Kennon's support of Mr. Eisenhower. Nominating speeches for both candidates took this tack. Gravel who campaigned hard for Stevenson, was labeled the man to bring "much needed unity" to the party, and Ainsworth was hailed as the candidate who would follow the traditional southern Democratic line.

Just as Ainsworth's defeat was considered a slap at the governor, Gravel's selection was not generally considered any major victory for former Gov. Earl K. Long, who had disclaimed support of Gravel but who worked behind the scenes for the Alexandria attorney. Too many state committee members switched sides in the 49-45 voting.

Gov. Kennon, who had been so confident of victory beforehand, summed it up: "They just didn't follow factional lines."

Oil Industry's Excess Supply Is Whittled Down

HOUSTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—There was indication this week the oil industry's problem of over supply is easing a bit.

Texas cautiously reversed a trend of two months and authorized a September increase of 67,235 barrels daily in crude oil allowances.

Socoyo-Vacuum Oil Co., after four cuts since November, boosted wholesale gasoline prices in 11 North Atlantic Seaboard states eight-tenths of a cent a gallon.

Gasoline stocks continued a gradual decline as refiners placed emphasis on heating fuels while preparing for the winter season.

Only last month there was fear excess gasoline stocks might lead to general instead of spot price cuts. There also was fear the flood of gasoline might force a cut in crude prices.

Texas crude purchasers last week indicated they would need less crude in September than in August. By the time the Railroad held its statewide prorating hearing Thursday purchasers desired less shipped in favor of a minor increase.

Ernest Thompson, commission chairman, announced the September increase but said:

"I'd hate to see us go off over-optimistic and have to cut back again."

Thompson said the state's July-August outbacks totaling 320,000 barrels daily resulted from excessive national crude and gasoline stocks.

The September allowable will be 2,782,876 barrels daily, compared to over 3 million at the end of the fighting in Korea.

Air Force 'Copter Aids Louisiana Forest Survey

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 21 (AP)—Timber Cruisers, the husky foresters who beat through pathless wilds in survey jaunts, called upon an Army helicopter this week for "man drop" operations in Concordia and Catahoula Parishes.

Phil Wheeler, survey chief, is battling against a Sept. 1 deadline for completion of the Louisiana forest survey. The helicopter, an H-19 Sikorsky seven-seater from the Alexandria Air Force Base, came to his assistance and made it possible to survey almost impassable bottomlands in one-third the time required on foot.

The survey will attempt to erase the question mark on Louisiana's future wood-using industry. It will tell forest industrialists how much timber is around at various stages of growth.

And—equally important—whether Louisiana timber is being cut faster than it is growing.

The survey is conducted on a scientific sample basis. For the start, grid lines three miles apart were drawn vertically and horizontally on a state map. Each grid intersection became a sample spot to survey, no matter where it happened to be.

Survey teams, naturally, ran into some out-of-the-way places. That's where the helicopter proved handy.

Men of the U. S. Forest Service, Louisiana Forestry Commission and the International Paper Co. make up the final survey team.

The three counters for the "man drop" carry only a bark gauge, increment borer, "Jacob's Staff" and compass, diameter tape, chain tape and hatchet.

While the helicopter hovers about 30 feet from the ground, foresters loop under their shoulders a heavy strap connected to a mechanical winch and dangle in the air until the winch lowers them to the ground.

To get back aboard, the operation is reversed.

But the returning helicopter couldn't always sight the woods buried cruisers. Some of the men violated their own preaching and started a fire to catch the pilot's eye.

Soybeans Climb During Week On Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Major grains practically held still on the Board of Trade this week but soybeans, rye and hard gave a fresh look to the market.

Soybeans wound up mixed, the September future gaining 9 3/4 cents while the deferred months fell 1 1/4 to 5 3/4 cents. Weather was the main influence in the market, although an advance in crude soybean oil to a new high for the year helped the September contract.

Rye moved ahead in sympathy with sharp gains at Winnipeg, where new seasonal highs were set, while hard was aided by an advance in loose hard to the best levels since May.

Wheat closed 1/4 to 1 cent higher, corn 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, oats 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, rye 3/4 to 4 cents higher and hard 5 cents to $1.05 higher.

GAS BLAST WRECKS HOME — This Mattapoisett, Mass., home was demolished by a terrific gas explosion which was followed by fire. Mrs. Joseph Tripp, occupant, was rescued from the wreckage by construction workers working on the street, she suffered shock and multiple cuts and bruises. Her husband, outside the house was hurled twenty feet and suffered back injuries. Firemen believed the explosion was caused by a power shovel loosening a gas pipe and a pilot light on a hot water heater touching off the accumulated gas. (AP Wirephoto)

Huge Pipeline Construction Is Begun By Willett

A 36-inch pipeline, first such line for natural gas in the United States, is being laid from Selma to Verbena, Ala., by the Associated Contractors of Houston, with the actual work on the line being handled by J. O. "Red" Willett Company of Monroe.

The pipeline under construction is a part of Transcontinental and Western's system and marks the beginning of an expansion program which will measure 750 miles in the near future. It will loop a 30-mile line from south Texas to New York.

The pipe was shipped from Orange, Tex., to Demopolis by the Gulf Barge Lines. With unloading facilities, methods and no docks available, it was necessary for the Willett company to turn in its own floating dock. Land was leveled and access roads cut. All pipe sections were put on the barges at Demopolis and transported by truck to Selma where it is being strung.

Demopolis was the nearest point by water route from Orange, Tex., to the destination of the pipe and was on a navigable stream.

Each of the 100-ton umbro barges arriving in Demopolis carried 200 sections of pipe, of the 36-inch diameter pipe, which is 10 feet long and weighs three tons each. All equipment necessary for the unloading was transported up-river. Willett on barges and rigs. The size of the pipe is such that the barges can handle only five joints or 15 tons per load.

Protests Pile Up Against FPC Orders Regulating Prices Of Natural Gas At Wells Flowing Into Interstate Lines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Protests are piling up against Federal Power Commission (FPC) orders for regulating the price of all natural gas flowing into interstate commerce.

At least a dozen petitions have been filed from within the industry for reconsideration of the orders, issued after the Supreme Court in effect directed FPC to widen its control over natural gas prices.

Some of the objectors contend the orders are unconstitutional. The orders prescribe rules to govern the estimated 4,100 independent producers and gatherers of natural gas affected by the court's decision.

The regulations among other things provide that no late increase can be made except with FPC approval and that applications for authority to transport and sell gas in interstate commerce must be filed by Oct. 1.

Some producers argue the FPC orders were issued without a hearing in violation of provisions of the Natural Gas Act and that they deprive producers of property in violation of the constitution.

The commission has 30 days after the date of filing to act on such petitions. The first of these — a group of three — were filed with the FPC Aug. 11 by Magnolia Petroleum Co., Ohio Oil Co. and Humble Oil & Refining Co.

Since then petitions for reconsideration have been submitted by American Republics Corp., Houston Oil Co. of Texas, Union Producing Co., Gulf Oil Corp. and Gulf Refining Co., George J. Darnelle of California, Tidewater Associated Oil Co., Kerr McGee Oil Industries Inc., Oil and Gas Property Management Inc., and Llano Grande Corp.

An FPC official said this week the commission's work to carry out the court's ruling doubtless would be slowed by failure of Congress to provide $300,000 for some 60 additional employees to handle the added duties. But he said the commission can not ignore the court decision and therefore will "do the best it can" with available manpower and money.

Russell Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, reports oil and gas producers are "greatly concerned" over the court decision and the FPC orders.

They "may have a bad effect," he said, perhaps affecting the volume of natural gas reaching interstate markets and consumers.

This could come about if independent producers should close down gas wells rather than come under FPC jurisdiction, but Brown said that so far he knew of no such threats.

One thing that has helped the situation some, he said, is appointment of a top-level committee by President Eisenhower to study gas, oil, coal and other problems.

But Brown expressed belief that "confusion" created by the court decision may "have to be cleared up by legislation."

Fluoridation In Orleans Halted; Proofs Demanded

Monroe readers of the Times Picayune Friday read with deep interest how the New Orleans city council heard pros and cons of the project of fluoridation of the city water supply. At the close of hours of debates, Dr. Walter P. Gardner, director of the New Orleans department of health, stated through the press that his department does not choose to commit itself at this time on the controversial question of artificial fluoridation of the city's water supply.

He told the health committee of the city council that members of the board want definite clinical evidence of the non-toxicity of fluorides before committing themselves and that until then they are helpless to form any opinion. He said information on the subject now available to the board is so prejudiced that one is left where he started.

"Why be a guinea pig," he asked councilmen, "when you haven't got it in your water now?"

Members of his board, he said, are specially concerned about the fact that many communities which had decided to fluoridate have since changed their minds and have rejected it. "There must be a good reason," he is quoted as remarking.

Further he was quoted as saying that while the Orleans Parish Medical Society had gone on record favorable to the plan, that their attitude had changed since so many communities have tried it and soon abandoned it.

At the meeting statements and observations, editorials and court decisions were injected, as well as testimony heard in congress when the matter came up there.

George Piazza, attorney for the Orleans sewerage and water board, discussed for more than an hour in which he quoted a 46 page booklet by Charles Elliot Perkins called "Truth about Fluoridation," which was published by the Fluoridation Educational Society of Washington, D. C. in 1952. Professor Perkins was described by his publishers as a "bio-chemist and psychologist internationally known, especially for his discoveries in cancer research."

Piazza quoted Perkins' book as stating that fluoridation causes acceleration of death by cancer and also contributes to such ailments as arthritis, diabetes, stomach ulcers and a variety of other ills. He charged "gross deception" on the part of advocates of fluoridation and said that the U. S. public health service, a major proponent has gone "haywire" on the subject.

Commenting on the book, it was stated at the meeting that an authority declared: "This book by such an authority as Perkins, is the most powerful weapon in the fight against fluoridation. If enough people will read this book, it would stop fluoridation in this country."

An average of 6,300 railroad tank cars were loaded each day during 1953.

Boats on the Ouachita bring enjoyment to people of every age. No matter the size. Ready to set out for an afternoon on the Glam are the Grant Boardmans and the Lee Carbrey, very proud, as they built her themselves and have great plans ahead for additions by next summer. At the left is Mr. Carbrey, Miss Marion Anderson of Mount Ayre, Iowa, the Boardman guest, son Cal Boardman and Mr. and Mrs. Boardman.

Summer On The Ouachita

The Alden Shotwell's Goofus has long been famous for good times. This late summer afternoon the Bill Parkers and Randolph Browns are leaving for supper and maybe a swim before dark. Mr. Brown is pictured at the left, next, Mrs. Parker and young son Laigh, Mrs. Brown with Susan, and Mr. Parker, at the right.

When one thinks of river and boats, Noe's Ark is outstanding. One of the oldest houseboats on the river, it has been the delight of young and old alike. The James A. Noes are seen on the river every afternoon, either with friends, on the Ark, or just family, in the speed boat for a swim and supper on a sand bar. Relaxing on the upper after deck before a late Sunday afternoon ride are, left, Miss Gay Noe, John McMillan of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. George Nicols, of Ruston, Miss Elizabeth Leigh, Mrs. Noe, Miss Maria Vaughan, guest of her grandmother Mrs. James Wooten, William Ferguson, Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Ferguson, and Miss Sandra Wilder.

Start from scratch or use a mix; but as soon as you take the cake from the oven turn the pan upside down and place the tube part over the cake hang this way until it is neck of a funnel or bottle. MISS GEORGIA EARLINE RAPE—approaching marriage to James E. Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hines of West Monroe, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Rape. The wedding will be an event of August 27.

Public Library To Show Movies To Reading Club

Attention all children who are members of the "Books Around the World" reading club! We have a wonderful surprise for you. Beginning tomorrow night and extending through next Wednesday night, September 1, we are having a series of picture shows for the children who are members of the club.

Because we have no space large enough to take care of all of the children at the same time, we have worked out a schedule and ask you to conform to it as near as possible. Please read this very carefully and keep it to refer to, in case you forget which night you are to come. Bookmobile patrons are welcome any night that is convenient for them to get into town. High school students in the club may also come any night that suits them, because we feel sure that they will want to bring their younger brothers and sisters.

We can have the shows only at nights, because we cannot make the library building dark enough in the day-time. The time of each showing will be 7:00. Now for the schedule by schools:
 Monday night, August 23 is Georgia Tucker night at the Monroe library.
 Tuesday night, August 24 is Crossley, Highland and Ransom night at the West Monroe library.
 Wednesday night, Aug. 25 is Lexington night at the Monroe library.
 Thursday night, August 26 is Mitchell, Millsaps, and St. Pascal night at the West Monroe library.
 Friday night, August 27 is Shorrouse and Plum Street night at the Monroe library.
 Monday night, August 30 is Barkdull Faulk and Lida Benton night at the Monroe Branch.
 Tuesday night, August 31 is the night for all the patrons of the Carver Branch at the Carver branch of the library.
 Wednesday night, September 1 is for the students of Ouachita Parish Grammar School, Central Grammar, St. Matthews, Our Lady of Fatima and any other's who haven't been mentioned. You may be wondering how we are able to give these shows. Only last week the library received a brand new Bell and Howell projector, which was purchased with funds donated by clubs and individuals. It is a wonderful projector and we know it is going to mean a great deal to us. We still owe some money on the purchase price, so if you haven't contributed yet, please make a small contribution. Your donation will be appreciated.

There are many sources from which we may borrow films and we have engaged a number of interesting ones, which are in keeping with the theme of the summer Reading Club, "Around the World with Books." The titles of the films sound most attractive. They are all sound and color films. Some of the titles are "Scotland, Background of Literature," "Glimpses of Picturesque Norway," "Wings to Mexico and Guatemala" and "Wings to Bermuda."

The shows will last exactly one hour each night, so parents are urged to pick up their children at the library at 8 o'clock. We hope all of you will be able to attend the shows on your appointed night. Please save this clipping for your information as to your night at the library.

Any spaghetti and tomato sauce leftover? Spoon it into a small pie dish and cover it with thin strips of cheese, making a pretty design of the cheese. Put it into a hot oven just until the spaghetti is hot through and the cheese melted. Makes a good supper for two with a tossed green salad and hard rolls.

Miss Jerry Lynn Humphreys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Emerson Humphreys of Columbia, became the bride of Bobbie Jack Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hall, also of Columbia, in a beautiful, candlelight ceremony performed at the Columbia Heights Methodist Church, The Rev. Samuel Percy Emanuel officiated at the double ring ceremony and was assisted by the Rev. Roy Gholson.

Magnolia leaves and greenery formed a background for tall baskets of white gladiolas which decorated the altar. A myriad of white cathedral tapers illuminated the setting.

The bouffant waltz-length skirt was of net and tulle over taffeta. She wore a coronet of lace trimmed in seed pearls which held her finger-tip veil of silk illusion. Her bouquet was of white tube roses centered with a white orchid and carried on a white ribbon.

Miss Sandra Humphreys, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore an ice blue embroidered organza dress with a small white hat. It featured a full skirt and fitted bodice with a low neckline and tiny puff sleeves. She carried a pink no-see-um bouquet.

The bride's mother chose for the occasion a navy blue model with white accessories and a corsage of white mums.

A reception followed in the garden of the bride's parents home at Columbia.

The bride's table was attractively decorated with a blue mallow covered parasol, shaded white wedding bells and the maid of honor's bouquet. Centering the table was the three-tiered wedding cake placed on a reflector and surrounded by wide asters.

The refreshment table was overlaid with a handsome white linen cutwork cloth over gold. The punch bowl was placed at one end of the table and presided over by Miss Bobbie Lee Hearn. Mrs. Faye Hudson served the wedding cake. Assisting with the courtesies were Miss Bert Hearn of Columbia and Mrs. Sibyl Hixon of Urania.

Roger-Swanner Vows Said In Lovely Church Ceremony

Miss Joan Swanner who was married Saturday at 4 o'clock in the chapel of the Jonesboro Baptist Church to Jimmie Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Rogers of Jonesboro.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webb Swanner of Jonesboro, was given in marriage by her father. Her waltz-length gown was of nylon lace over pure silk tulle and featured a scalloped decollete neckline edged in seed pearls with diminutive short sleeves banded with a scroll design of seed pearls. Her matching lace gauntlets came to points over her hands and fastened with silver buttons. The mounted bride was accentuated by the full nylon skirt. About her shoulders was the misty aura of her bridal veil of Grecian net, which she wore to a cap of Brussels lace. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from her mother, and a gift of earrings, a gift from her father, completed the setting.

She carried a bouquet of purple threated white orchids surrounded with flowers d'amour, from which fell cascades of satin streamers tied in soft love knots.

Rev. John Hurt, Jr., pastor of the Jonesboro Baptist Church, performed the double ring ceremony to points over her hands and fastened with silver buttons. The mounted bride was accentuated by the full nylon skirt. About her shoulders was the misty aura of her bridal veil of Grecian net, which she wore to a cap of Brussels lace. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from her mother, and a gift of earrings, a gift from her father, completed the setting.

for the wedding party.

Miss Martha Sue Wheatley and Mrs. Loretta Roden lighted the candles. They wore identical gowns of blush pink eyelet embroidery, featuring fitted bodice with full ballerina length skirts. Their corsages of pink rose buds were attached to their wrists.

Mrs. Francis Calhoun, organist, presented a program of wedding music and accompanied Miss Patty Koonce who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt on satin covered kneeling bench surrounded by tiny satin bows.

Travis Ford and Eddie Durham served as ushers.

Mr. George Hall served as best man.

Miss Joy Shankles was maid of honor. Her dress was of blue eyelet over net and tulle with a shirred Victorian bodice attached to a bouffant skirt. She carried a fan edged in pink asters.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Doris Nell Blalock and Miss Mona Henry. Miss Blalock wore a gown of pastel green eyelet over net and tulle featuring a moulded bodice and a bouffant ballerina length skirt. Her fan was of orchid asters. She wore a matching hat.

Mrs. Swanner chose for her daughters' wedding a navy blue shantung dress with a velvet hat trimmed in sequins and a corsage of red rosebuds.

The grooms' mother chose an aqua suit complemented by a hat of soft pink and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. The mantel held a lovely floral arrangement of pink hibiscus and roses. Baskets of white gladioli and ferns were placed on each side of the fireplace.

In the receiving line were the bride couple, their mothers and members of the bridal party.

The bride's table was covered with an imported white damask cloth holding a lovely floral centerpiece of pink rose buds and fern flanked on each side with burning pink tapers in double candelabra. The white three-tiered wedding cake was beautifully decorated with valley blues and pink sweetheart roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Opposite the cake on the other end of the table was the crystal bowl of pink punch and dairy bowls of rose bud mints with green leaves.

Miss Lily Lush presided over

MR. AND MRS. JIMMIE ROGERS

the punch bowl.

Mrs. Murrie Lee Cheshire served the wedding confection. Mrs. Perry Henry invited guests to register in the bride's book. The bride placed her bouquet on the table by the bride's book. Assisting with the courtesies were: Mrs. W. H. Ayers, Mrs. Travis Kilpatrick, Mrs. M. E. McBride, Miss Lee Ann Swanner and Miss Toni Burlingham.

For traveling the bride changed to a navy blue linen coat dress, with white accessories and an orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Girl Scout News

The news today is from Camp Wawbansee where 46 Girl Scouts and their counselors are enjoying two weeks of camping at the first established camp ever to be sponsored by the local council.

A week ago today, seemingly not bothered by the heat, the girls checked into camp. It was the day they had dreamed about and worked toward for many months, and they were not disappointed in their hopes.

Mothers and fathers left their daughters with beds made and possessions stowed away in the little brown cabins overlooking the lake, and in charge of friendly counselors. The most frequently heard comments from parents were "It didn't dream it was this nice," and "We wish we could stay, too."

After a flag ceremony, supper, and a short Scout's Own on the shore of the lake at dusk, campers were ready for showers and bed. It was a bit hard to sleep the first night, and hard to stay in bed until the rising bell next morning, but oh, how everybody slept the second night!

Campers particularly enjoy the cool water of the swimming pool. Practically every camper is at least a fair swimmer, and under the directions of "Sunny" Miller, Pat Sanders and Julie Wooley, all are working on perfecting strokes and hoping to become proficient enough to be allowed to take canoeing.

At the start of the canoeing classes, Patty Proffit, Yvonne Huckabee, Nike Poulos, Mary Jo Strausser, Joan Williams, Dee Wallace, Nancy Wilson, Diane King, Charlotte Ford, Betty Rose Haddad, Beth Fink and Marilyn Hewitt were able to qualify.

Who would ever have thought that a girls' camp would have to make a rule against lizards in the dining room? Tiny lizards are all over the place and the girls find that seemingly they like to be an ornament for one's shirt front. Of course, the campers don't treat them cruelly. They let the little creature go after a few hours.

The youngest camper Wawbansee has ever had is Barbara Easterling, who spent a day and a night while Mama Ethel, camp committee chairman, was helping out at camp. Barbee will really be a veteran camper by the time she is Scout age.

In the new craft house, the girls from Fern Lodge and Persimmon Hill units have started baskets and all have made the useful sit-upon by weaving folds of brown paper.

Thursday was cook out day for supper, each unit cooking out in order to give the kitchen staff an afternoon off. Fern unit was the first to try out the jungle hammocks, swung from the trees in the groves across the lake. They cooked supper and breakfast—stick cooking for both meals, but these are the oldest campers and have had some experience in outdoor cooking.

Guess what the campers are doing today! Each girl is getting to be a movie queen. June and Ted Strausser have gone over to Wawbansee to make movies of camp activities. Won't the girls have fun seeing themselves in their favorite camp activities?

Tait Family Enjoys Reunion

A family reunion of interest to a number of people in this area was that of the Tait brothers and their families.

Among those enjoying a banquet in Ruston and an outing at the McDonald's Camp on Black Lake were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvie Tait and son, Bill of Riverside, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Tait of Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Lela Bogard and family of Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Tait of West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Tait of Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. Vert Tait, Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Tait, Mr. Charlie Tait.

My Answer
By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: "I find it difficult to get time to pray first thing in the morning and I often have to begin my day's work without having spent a few minutes in the secret of God's presence. This troubles me, as I am so anxious to live a good Christian life. B. K."

ANSWER: It is good that you should recognize the importance of spending time with God in prayer each day. A regular "quiet time" is of great spiritual value, and if you cannot fit this into your program in the early morning, I would counsel you to seek an opportunity later in the day or perhaps at night. Here the old saying is true, that where there's a will there's a way.

But I would like to say to you that even more important than set times of prayer is the spirit of prayer; and I believe it is possible, with practice, for a Christian to maintain a praying spirit at all times of his life.

In your home, at your work, as you walk down the street—wherever you may be—your heart can be lifted up to God and you can commit each need to Him as it arises. This is what Lawrence called "the practice of the presence of God."

It is well to remember that prayer is not simply talking with God. It is fellowship with God. And we can enjoy such fellowship at all times and in all places through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Messages:

0. II Tim. 2:23. Have nothing to do with stupid, senseless controversies; you know that they breed quarrels. Be strong and of good courage. May God give you of the dew of heaven, and of the fatness of the earth.

1. Josh. 1:6. I believe that I shall see goodness in the land of the living!

2. Gen. 27:28. You shall not wrong a stranger or oppress him.

He has had 1½ years of college work at Tennessee Temple Baptist College, Chattanooga, Tenn., and plans to enter Northeast College this fall to complete his training in preparation to entering New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary.

Crowville Methodist Men Secure Charter
CROWVILLE, Aug. 21 (Special)—A new organization of Methodist Men in Crowville Methodist church, has been chartered by Methodism's General Board of Lay Activities in Chicago.

President of the new group is T. A. Cox, Crowville; E. L. Cupit, Crowville, is the vice-president; and Lenton Newsom, Crowville, is the secretary. The Rev. S. B. Dampier is pastor of the church.

The local group is one of nearly 7,000 Methodist Men organizations out of a total goal of 10,000 clubs which the board plans to charter by 1966.

It is estimated that 2,000,000 men in The Methodist Church are prospective members of Methodist Men clubs.

Robert G. Mayfield, executive secretary of the board, states that, "We seek to mobilize through Methodist Men the tremendous power and enthusiasm of the men of the church. Our purpose is to give strength to the program of Christ and His church through consecrated service of men in every local church of Methodism."

After a quarter of a century of off-and-on discussion, general plans have been accepted for the union of five Christian communions in north India and in Pakistan, and these plans have now been returned to the governing bodies of the communions for approval or rejection. Much of the detail of organization has been left for action after the general plan has been accepted by some or all of the churches. The new church (as yet unnamed) will, however, have a synod meeting every three years, and a moderator "to be chosen from among the bishops."

There will be emphasis upon the lay ministry of both men and women.

There will be prayer groups each night praying for the success of the meeting.

1st Methodist College Planned For Alaska

A campaign to raise $500,000 in the Territory of Alaska toward the $2,000,000 needed for construction of a four-year Methodist liberal arts college in Anchorage will be launched in Anchorage on Oct. 18.

The balance of the needed funds is to be raised by subscription among Methodist churches in the States. Gov. B. Frank Heinzelman, city officials of Anchorage and the local Chamber of Commerce will inaugurate the campaign as a feature of Alaska Day ceremonies here.

The decision to locate the institution at Anchorage was made last January by the Methodist Board of Missions, at its annual meeting. Plans for the establishment of a church-related college in Alaska had been under consideration by the board for more than two years. At present there are no accredited church-related senior colleges in Alaska.

THE HOME SHIFT—

Day Lilies Need Shallow Planting

The heat is taking its toll of plants, regardless of proper watering and mulching. It seems to me the sun's rays have never been down so mercilessly. I'm covering several good camellias to save them, yet they've gone through previous summers without any trouble.

Farm and Home Week

I know you'd expect me to come home from Baton Rouge with something for you on gardening. Mrs. Walter Colquit from Shreveport talked on "Hemerocallis the Perfect Perennial." I quote from her lecture, "Fertilize day lilies now with a balanced fertilizer with some of the trace elements. (Trace elements are iron, magnesium, etc.). Move day lilies after the weather cools and we have some rain. Cut them back to about six or eight inches, divide and set in good soil that has been worked and pulverized. The kind of soil makes no difference. Two grown them equally successfully in acid soil in azalea beds and in alkaline soil with bearded iris. Place plants on a slight mound and pull the dirt in to them. Water well and the plant will settle to its proper depth. Day lilies need shallow planting. The newer varieties drop their old blooms each day, which is an advantage. Cut the bloom stalks as the flowers bloom. Don't 'yank' these out as you may leave an injury that causes rot and encourages sow bugs. One of the best picks is 'Pink Damask.' End of quote.

Of course, Jo Evans always gives us something good. This is a short summary of some of the fine points of her lecture demonstration on "Around the Clock with Flowering Shrubs."

"Our old bulbs such as paper white narcissus should not be fertilized as this throws them into foliage and you get very few flowers."

"Spray flowering quince with oil emulsion early in the spring when you spray camellias and azaleas. Fertilize at the same time. Keep the plants mulched and prune in early spring immediately after they bloom. With this treatment the plants will bloom profusely. We don't use quince as often as we should in our landscape plants. They come in colors from white, pale pink to red."

"The star magnolia needs plenty of water. The pearl bush is a flowering shrub not used very much. It's hardy and inexpensive. Plant Belles of Ireland at any time of year. Keep the seed damp until they sprout and come up. This foliage plant is not successful transplanted, so put the seed where you want them to stay."

"Plant annuals in with the bulbs to hide the foliage, as it dies in the spring. Clausena tulips are the only ones that will come up year after year. Plant amaryllis very shallow in fertile soil. Potash is fine for our berries plants."

New Fabrics
So much for gardening. The home economist for an electric company gave us some good points on the new man-made fabrics. She says pinked seams make the best finish when sewing on these materials. Miss Kiene says when buying nylon curtains, ask for "heat set" material. This will cost more, but you can depend on the material not wrinkling when it is washed. Dacron materials will not shrink if they are heat set.

When buying a pleated nylon skirt look for the words "permanent pleat." The pleats will stay in after laundering. Those marked "durable pleat" will not hold.

Miss Kiene really dropped a bomb when she said, "Wash nylon in water heated to 140 degrees using an all-purpose detergent." In the past we've been taught to use lukewarm water. She said of course, not to wash while nylons with colored materials.

An Error
In your "Monthly Garden Jobs" sent you from this office, there is an error. Turn to the last page on fertilizers and make this correction please. The paragraph beginning with nitrogen should read: Nitrogen is the foliage producing element and gives the deep green color to plants, and deeper color to flowers. If you want to buy just nitrogen, call for one of the plants in plants indicated by yellowish green leaf color. An excess reduces the development of flowers and fruit and causes soft unhealthy growth.

Announcements
One of Mrs. M. E. Pickett's neighbors called and said a treat is in store for you if you'll drive by 3806 Spurgeon Drive. The amaranthus is in bloom around Mrs. Pickett's house, every color in the rainbow and then some.

My radio program has been changed from 8:15 to 9:15 on KNOE. I follow Beth Breece each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. I'll be in Florida all this next week. Miss Esther Cooley, Consumer Education Specialist, from L. S. U. Extension Department will visit with you on the "Around the Clock" program at 1:30 p.m. Miss Cooley will give you a demonstration on "A Good Knife for the Job." See you next Sunday.

Moving To New Home At Last!

The Home Gardeners of Monroe presented the flower show at the center this week. Mrs. Lea Thompson and Mrs. John Lewis served as judges. In the horticulture section ribbons were awarded to Mrs. M. W. Montgomery for amaranthus and Mrs. K. R. Young for Rosa de Montana and Plumage.

In the arrangement division first place was awarded to Mrs. K. R. Young. In a tan free-form container Mrs. Young made a lovely asymmetrical design in green-yellow, using iris leaves with a focal point of celosia. Mrs. M. W. Montgomery was awarded second place. Using a flat green container Mrs. Montgomery created a beautiful arrangement of canna leaves and stalks in maroon and green with liriopsis flowers and French mulberry in the focal area. Third place to Mrs. M. J. Horton. In a horizontal pillow container of green Mrs. Horton made a pleasing vertical arrangement of lured aspidistra leaves with a cluster of yellow and red amaranthus at the base of the arrangement.

Our state president, Mrs. Homer Harris, aware of the fine work done by our Louisiana flower arrangers is urging us to send in photographs to the lower arrangement calendar contest for 1956. Please keep this in mind when making your arrangements for exhibit at the Garden Center. Any worthy arrangement will be photographed and sent to the contest. Credit will be given the arranger and her club. Your club president has probably received a letter about this contest from the publishers. Up to the present time Louisiana has not been represented. Let's all try to enter this contest showing our local plant material and the talent we have here in our state. Later on I will have more information about this.

Mr. Truman Quinton of Jackson, Miss., visited the center this week and was amazed and delighted at the progress we have made. We hope to have Mr. Quinton as a consultant again this fall.

Here's another foliage arrangement you might like to try. Mrs. G. W. Levert made this one and it lasted two full weeks. Using a palm spathe as a container (small glass container in the Mrs. Levert created a rhythmic arrangement of pine, pittosporum and large violet leaves. Lovely and cool looking.

The First Christian Church members enjoyed the twin arrangements made recently by Mrs. E. L. Marchman and Mrs. M. W. Montgomery. These were used on either side of the communion table. Using matching white pillow vases they created identical triangular arrangements of aspidistra foliage and white calla lilies. The walls of the church are a light value of pink with maroon velvet draperies in the background.

Next Wednesday, August 25 will see us in our beautiful new air-conditioned home in the Sears Farm and Garden Store located at 1501 Louisville. We want to extend an invitation to you all to come in and visit. It's a date.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Visited Famous Bobuli Gardens

LONDON, England — Last week your columnist visited the famous Bobuli Gardens in Florence. These gardens are spread over a great area behind the famous Pitti Palace, now an art gallery, across the Ponte Vecchio from Florence.

Viewed from any of the famous towers of Florence, the Bobuli Gardens look like solid hillsides of green trees except for a large fountain area and an open vista leading to the top of the hill. When you get to the gardens you literally go into them for many of the walks are underneath the huge canopy of evergreens, oaks and other trees and shrubs. The long walks of magnificent green, twenty feet high, look like they may have been made of stone, so straight are they.

How do they ever reach up that high to clip them? One can scarcely imagine that there would be a gigantic maze such as this anywhere in the world. Yet here it is! I got completely lost in the serpentine paths for about an hour looking for a famous piece of statuary which I never found.

The hills around Florence are covered with ancient gray green olive trees. You can get lost in the beautiful little narrow roads closed in completely by high walls. The roads get narrower and narrower until you are sure you have reached the end. Suddenly the walls disappear and you see you are out in the open olive orchards. Here and there, you will see the bright red trunks of the cork oaks. They strip off the bark every few years and make cork from it.

This does not kill the trees. They just grow some more bark which can be used in a few years, too.

In Rome, the famous Borghese Gardens turned out to be just a huge park. The plants down here in Italy are much like those in our south. It had been hot and dry and, although there was no grass in sight, the fine leaved dark green Liriodendron, that is beginning to get around as an evergreen all over our southern states, presented a beautiful sight as far as the eye could see under the dense shade of the trees. They were not sprinkling it either.

Well, my time was up in Italy as I had to fly here to London to represent the American Horticultural Society at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Royal Horticultural Society which began last night at a dinner at the Savoy in London.

The Hon. David Bowes-Lyon, uncle of Her Majesty the Queen, presided over the elegant occasion at which many of the world's most famous gardeners and horticulturists sat down to dinner. From all over the world the people had come to honor the RHS, founded 150 years ago by the son of Josiah Wedgwood, the pottery maker. Mr. Wedgwood and several other plant lovers got together, as gardeners, and organized what turned out to be the greatest garden club in the world.

I found myself sitting next to Mr. de Rothschild whose collection of rhododendrons at Exbury is world famous.

This delightful man who has many gardens and gardeners and has sent plant hunters all over the world seeking more rare plants was enthusiastic about our dogwood. He was just as eager to know more about American plants as if he did not already have acres of them.

On my left was Lord Aberconway, son of the late Lord Aberconway who was president of the RHS for so many years, a very old friend and who knew more about plants of the world than most men.

The Earl of Stair was sitting at our table and had driven down from Scotland with a bunch of flowers that had wilted on the way. Mr. Bowes-Lyon had had the idea that these illustrious flower lovers would bring flowers with which to decorate the tables.

The London papers this morning seemed to enjoy the joke as much as we at the dinner. Not enough flowers showed up to decorate any of the tables but the speaker's. The dining room was full of English peers and colorful personalities from everywhere. M. Villonin from France, the fascinating Dutch scientists and bulb people and the astonishing Mr. Wheatcroft with his beard and famous among rose lovers everywhere. These are but a few of the striking personalities engaged in talking about their favorite subject: gardening.

This dinner ought to go down in history as the only one of the sort ever held as there was only one after-dinner speaker and the guests just talked to each other to their heart's content.

Catahoula Is Surveying Its Drought Losses

HARRISONBURG (Special) — A delegation of Catahoula citizens met here in the ASC office Wednesday to estimate the damage wrought by the drought in the parish.

Catahoula is one of the parishes for which Governor Robert Kennon has asked help under Public Law 875.

This area has been hard hit by the drought and will suffer further damage unless the section gets rain soon. There has been little rainfall since April and some areas, especially the northern area of the parish, has had practically none at all.

The delegation of citizens found all crops far below normal in the parish, including:

Pastures, 25 per cent of normal, range, 18 per cent of normal, corn, 20 per cent of normal; cotton, 35 per cent of normal; beans, 20 per cent of normal; red grain, 20 per cent of normal; and hay, 15 per cent of normal.

The findings of this delegation will be sent to the state agricultural offices and forwarded to the secretary of agriculture in Washington, D. C.

Studying the drought situation in Catahoula were W. S. Black and F. W. Clason of South Island Oil, Anttonberry of the oil construction office, Barney Cason of the FIA, E. M. Gray, secretary of credit association, H. G. Tannehill, Jones and E. E. Johnson and Bill Beckham, county agents.

You get a 3-way bonus in the car that's soaring to new success

WHAT has happened in the automobile business this year is something that you should take to heart — as a personal benefit to yourself, and as a sure way to pick a winner.

It is simply this: Buick has moved into the charmed circle of America's three top sales leaders—a circle once dominated only by the so-called "low-price three."

In plainer words — Buick today is outselling all other cars in America except two of these so-called "low-price three." And this has come about because of Buick's advanced year-ahead styling, great V8 power, big-car room and comfort — all for prices starting right close to the lowest. So you reap a worthwhile 3-way benefit.

1. You get the look of tomorrow—today

In Buick today you get the modern styling other cars will reach in the future. For here you get true year-ahead beauty — long, low glamor lines, sports-car grace, and that spectacular new panoramic windshield that most other cars won't have till 1955.

2. You get the bigger allowance of our volume business

The tremendous sales volume that has brought Buick into the leadership circle of the "Big Three" means that we can offer you a higher trade-in allowance on your present car when you buy a new Buick. That's the simple reason why we can make you a better deal right now.

3. You get more real dollars when you trade

In Buick we understand that every year it's a new thing. Buick is always the first to use the latest styling ideas. So when you trade in your old car for a new Buick, you get more real dollars when you trade.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

This is an exercise the whole family can do. While walking in place, count the toes hard and do not let your feet go under the hips.

Get Your Whole Family In The Exercise Habit

It is not a family exercise in the members of your family. With the children at home, it is not much fun to exercise alone, but it is lots of fun to exercise together.

Exercise is a family project. Mother will probably need to concentrate on some exercises which are especially good for the feminine figure while father may need a few special ones for himself. The same thing is true of son and daughter. However, there are many exercises which are fine for everyone. You can do these together first and then each individual can do his own, but all at the same time. This will look somewhat like a small group of circus performers.

Good For Tummy

For instance, the following exercise is splendid for everyone because everyone needs a strong abdominal wall and father is susceptible to a protruding abdomen. Even if there are no figure faults this exercise is beneficial.

1. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms stretched out overhead and resting on the floor. Bend both knees and grasp your knees with your hands. Turn your legs and arms to the floor simultaneously. Stretch out on the floor. Continue.

2. Practically everyone needs posture exercises. Even if your carriage is good, unless you watch it, time and gravity may cause it to be less perfect. Therefore a shoulder exercise is indicated. The whole family can stand tall, toes pointing forward and arms at sides. Make large circles with the arms, crossing them in front of the body as they move upward, reaching high overhead. Then bring them downward and backward, pulling back as you do so. Continue making large smooth circles.

3. The whole family can stand tall and walk in place, lifting their knees high up in front of them. Feet should not be under the hips when you bend your knees but in front of you, with toes pointing hard toward the floor.

Breathe Deeply

4. You can end your exercise routine with the following exercise which has a happy influence on posture. Lie on the floor with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Try to keep the middle of your back pressed against the floor, as you inhale deeply and then slowly exhale. Do this slowly and deeply. Let your diaphragm do the work.

Even if the family does only these four exercises they will be benefited.

If you would like to have my letter, "Family Exercise Plan," which gives you detailed instructions for the different members of the family, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 25. Address: Josephine Lowman in care of Morning World.

Mrs. Vincent Program Chief Of PTA Council

Mrs. W. S. Vincent, former president of the Louisiana State Parent-Teacher Association, was named program chairman for the Monroe PTA Council at the first meeting of the current year. Mrs. Mamie (Stanley) Hodges was named as hospitality chairman. Miss Eloise Cain was requested to present the business at the next regular meeting for adoption. Mrs. Marvin Spaulder was elected secretary.

"Our theme for the year," says Mrs. Carl Thompson, president, "will be Achieving Together. We feel that the best way to start achieving together is to meet together. Therefore we are planning to invite the parish and city superintendents, the supervisors, visiting teachers, principals, presidents of schools, Dean William Smith, Mrs. Carrie Williams, Mrs. Lewis Slater, and the presidents of the school boards to meet with us and help us plan some worth while projects."

The next presidents are asked to send their summer-round-up, room for initiative, membership and national Parent-Teacher magazine statement to this meeting. The meeting will be held at the Educational Building, First Methodist Church, September 2 at 9:30 a.m. All units are urged to be represented at this important meeting. Plans and except one was reported at the meeting Tuesday morning.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. M.
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

1. EVERYONE, EVEN THE WEALTHIEST AND MOST PROMINENT, HAS SOME PETTY ECONOMY. TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐ 1-4

2. SHOULD ALL CHILDREN LEARN TO READ AT THE SAME AGE? YES ☐ NO ☐

3. ARE WOMEN MORE LIKELY THAN MEN TO BECOME HYPNOTICS? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Probably true. Vice President Marshall saved every pin he found and smoked five-cent cigars. Many women will pay $40 for a hat and walk a mile to save taxi fare. A friend of Arthur Brisbane, millionaire, says Brisbane would often slip into a cheap restaurant, eat a 25-cent meal, and leave a five-cent tip for the peeved waitress.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No. "Reading Readiness Tests" show some children are ready at four or five, some not until nine or ten. Educator Arthur Morse says parents don't expect all children to walk or talk at the same age. Why should they expect them to read—a much harder feat for many—at the same age? Our booklet, "How To Read Faster and Better," will enable most readers to double their speed. Send at cost, 15 cents (coin only) plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Yes. Women want more trim-

kets than men. However, causes are different. One person may long for things denied in childhood; another, repressed by parents in childhood takes this way of defying them; a girl, frightened in childhood about sex, may spurn men and steal to "get even." Psychiatrists and psychologists can cure most cases.

Phone Directory To Have New Face

After 16 years, "The Spirit of Communications" symbol will be missing from the front of Southern Bell Telephone directories.

A new cover has been designed picturing an illustration of a young woman using long distance facilities.

The new covers will appear on directories to be delivered on August 26 and will appear thereafter until they are shown on all directories published by Southern Bell, N. E. Franovich, manager of Southern Bell said today.

The back cover of the directory also will be changed to show an outline map of the United States with the nine states served by Southern Bell prominently displayed and a young lady using long distance.

Bus Service On Louisville Ave. To Be Stepped Up

Bus service for routes along Louisville avenue is due to increase two-fold next week when the Monroe bus department begins a "three bus per hour" schedule for the rapidly growing sections along the expressway.

Buses now complete tours on the route at 40 minute intervals.

Wiley R. Moseley, department superintendent, said Wednesday night that the additional service will probably begin next week, but gave no definite date. A number of commercial developments in the area were prime reasons for the new schedules, he said.

Moseley said that the normal bus fares would prevail and transfers from other lines would continue to be honored. Daily service for the line will begin at 6:10 a.m. each day.

The superintendent also told of five new General Motors 33-passenger units to be placed in service September 1 throughout the city. The buses, each with automatic transmission, are replacements for worn vehicles to be retired.

Selman P.T.A. Will Hold Thursday Meet

Mrs. Frank Nolden, president of the Selman Parent-Teacher Association, said, "The time is fast approaching when active parent-teacher work will be in full force. We have designated Thursday morning, August 26 for our first meeting of the Selman PTA executive committee. At this time we will study the kit of tools and lay the ground work for our year's activities."

All members of the executive committee, which is composed of elected officers, the school principal and the committee chairmen are requested to be present at the Selman Elementary School faculty room Thursday morning, August 26 at 9 o'clock.
